Webster Parish Schools Celebrate Dr. Seuss's Birthday

WILL PHILLIPS/MINDEN PRESS-HERALD

Mother Goose Landing, along with other schools across the parish, took part in National Read Across America Day this past week. Falling on Dr. Seuss's birthday, Mother Goose Landing decided to invite Webster Parish Libraries' Children's Librarian Kaitlyn Taylor out to read some of Dr. Seuss's classics to the students there.

Judge Sentell facilitates civic learning at Glenbrook

AMBER MCDOWN
Minden Press-Herald

Judge Sherb Sentell recently visited Glenbrook School to teach information about 1st Amendment Rights as part of the Judges in the Classroom program.

Judges in the Classroom was started twenty years ago by Judge Benjamin Jones as an outreach program with the goal of assisting teachers in educating students about government and the court system. Judges visit schools to teach lessons or classes come to the courthouse to see the process in action.

As part of the program, students study the U.S. Constitution and the Declaration of Independence as well as the branches of government and how they interact. They also learn about Louisiana's Constitution and our state's judicial system. Students can participate in mock trials to get some hands-on experience in how the system works.

"It's very interesting that children as young as 4th grade can understand most of these concepts fairly well, and they can ask some very interesting and surprisingly deep questions," said Judge Jones about the program.

When Judge Sentell visited Glenbrook, he used "Crime, Consequences and the Power of Choice" by Louisiana Supreme Court Justice Scott J. Crichton as the premise for how social media, cyberbullying, and sexting relate to our 1st Amendment rights concerning free speech.

"Judge Sentell's presentation was sensational," said Dr. Naomi Coyle, Assistant Headmaster in Charge of Instruction for Glenbrook School. "The students not only enjoyed his presentation but also learned a lot."

Chief Justice John Weimer feels like this program is incredibly important. In an email to all Louisiana judges he stated, "I suggest that more time spent in classrooms, demystifying for inquisitive young minds how cases are decided, might result in less time spent in the courtrooms, to the benefit of all society."

For more information about this program, you can contact the Louisiana Center for Law and Civic Education at lalce.org.

Minden Police Department joins Neighbors by Ring

AMBER MCDOWN
Minden Press-Herald

The Minden Police Department is now taking part in the community-safety app called Neighbors by Ring. The Neighbors by Ring app issues real-time crime and safety alerts to communities.

"The Neighbors App uses your address to create a radius around your home. If anyone shares an alert on the app about crime or safety within that radius, you'll get a notification on your phone and tablet. Conversely, if you share an alert on the app about a crime or safety issue in your radius, your neighbors will also get a notification on their phones and tablets. You can then comment on these alerts to provide additional information about local issues, give tips to avoid affected areas, share photos or videos to help neighbors stay on the lookout, etc.," says the Neighbors by Ring website.

Having the Minden Police Department participating means that your alerts will not only be coming from other Neighbors, but from a department that can provide pertinent facts. "The Minden Police Department can view what local residents have posted publicly to Neighbors and can now chime-in with relevant updates or safety alerts to help residents stay informed," said the Facebook post from the Minden Police Association.

In other places the app has been used to help stop strings of car break-ins and package thefts as well as reuniting missing pets with their owners. If used correctly, this could allow the people of Minden to be easily made aware of changing situations in their neighborhoods.

It is important to remember that this is not intended as a way to contact the police with information or for emergencies. The app is designed to allow neighbors to alert neighbors; for the police, this will allow them to disperse information to the specific areas that are affected.

If you have information about a crime to report, please call the Minden Police Department at (318) 377-1212, and if there is an emergency, call 911.

Local disturbance leads to meth arrest

STAFF REPORT
Minden Press-Herald

Four people were arrested on Saturday after the police were called to investigate a disturbance on Miller St.

When the officer arrived at the 300 block of Miller St., he found Jackie Hickey outside the apartment near several broken items and an open bottle of vodka. Hickey told the officer that two of her relatives were fighting inside. Inside, the officer found Wesley Griffith, who reported that the people who had been fighting were hiding in the back bedroom.

At this point, the officer radioed for more units. Once the officers arrived, they began giving loud verbal commands for the people to come out.

When no one responded, the officers entered the main bedroom and found Skyler Martin hiding behind the bed. Jeremy Shane Patterson was located in the bathroom but refused, multiple times, to come out.

"After about 3 minutes of warnings and commands I deployed a burst of chemical spray to Patterson's face," said the officer in the arrest record. "Patterson still refused multiple times to comply with officers. When Patterson got close enough to the door, [the other officers] grabbed Patterson. As we were pulling Patterson out of the bathroom he grabbed my ballistic vest with his left hand and all three of us went to the ground."

Patterson refused to be handcuffed. The officers had to employ "hard hand strikes" in an attempt to gain his compliance. Eventually, they were able to force Patterson's hands into the cuffs.

During the investigation that followed, a purse containing 0.69 grams of methamphetamine was found in the cushions of the couch. A digital scale and plastic baggies were also found in the same area. Hickey said the purse was hers but claimed "she had not smoked meth in almost a week."

Jackie Hickey was arrested for possession of methamphetamine; Wesley Griffith was arrested for three existing warrants; Skyler Martin was arrested for outstanding warrants, disturbing the peace, and resisting an officer; and Jeremy Patterson was arrested for disturbing the peace, fighting and resisting with force or violence.

LIONS CLUB

Ted Brode to be guest speaker at this week's Lions Club meeting

Special to the Minden Press-Herald

Guest speaker for the Thursday, March 10 meeting of the Minden Lions Club will be Ted Brode. His topic will be "Louisiana's role in our victory in the American Revolution."

Brode was born and raised in Monroe and is a 1964 graduate of Neville High school. He graduated from Northeast Louisiana State College in 1969 with a bachelor's degree in education. During college, he had signed on with the Army ROTC, so immediately upon graduation he became a second lieutenant in the infantry. While at Fort Benning, Ga., Brode applied for and was accepted into Rotor Wing School. He was trained as a helicopter pilot at Fort Wolters, Texas, and Fort Rucker, Ala.

Brode served three years in the military, including a tour in Vietnam as a gunship pilot flying the UH1-C. When the "Charlie Models" were retired, he flew the "Nighthawk" (an armed UH1-H) at Plieku. Most of Brode's flight hours were night-combat missions.

Following military service, Brode returned to Louisiana and began teaching at Riser Jr. High School in West Monroe. Soon after, he married Phyllis Thompson, with whom he had four children. He is now grandfather to five grandchildren. Brode earned a master's degree plus 30 in education and taught all the various histories covered in the middle schools over the 37 years of his employment at that one school before retiring in 2008. After retirement, he taught at the private Geneva Academy in Monroe. He served over 20 years as a deacon at Oak Grove Baptist Church and then at Auburn Avenue Presbyterian Church as a deacon and elder.

Brode joined the Sons of Confederate Veterans in 1987 and has served in many capacities over the years, including camp treasurer, camp lieutenant commander, camp commander (15 years), brigade commander, division first lieutenant commander, and division commander. In 2010, he joined the Sons of the American Revolution, later serving as chapter treasurer and now chapter president. Brode is also the state society commander of the Louisiana Society Color Guard.

For most of his 67 plus years, Brode has been keenly interested in history - pretty much a life's work.

The Minden Lions Club meets Thursdays at noon at the American Legion Memorial Home, located at 119 Pine St. in Minden.

City of Minden joins “Love the Boot Campaign” with “Boots on the Boulevard”

WILL PHILLIPS
Minden Press-Herald

The City of Minden, the Greater Minden Chamber, and other local business leaders have partnered with the State of Louisiana during their “Love the Boot” campaign and to initiate Minden’s first annual “Boots on the Boulevard”.

“Love the Boot Week is a statewide effort designed by Keep Louisiana Beautiful to bring thousands of citizens together to participate in cleanup and beautification events, all the while bringing awareness to the littering problem and its negative impacts on Louisiana,” a press-release from the Lt. Governor’s Office stated.

“Boots on the Boulevard” is the title of the beautification event that Minden is creating as a part of this campaign that is hoped to be continued for years to come. The “2022 Boots on the Boulevard” goals are to replace the roof structure on the Jacqueline Park Gazebo, add a lighted welcome sign on Depot Hill, hold second generation tree planting at Jacqueline Park and Depot Hill, and to install a seating area at Jacqueline Park with engraved honorary bricks.

The honorary bricks are an exclusive perk of the event’s top tier sponsorship. These bricks will be installed at Jaqueline Park and will serve to be a permanent reminder of the contributions these individuals/businesses made to keep Minden beautiful.

“Your brick could be a family name or business or organization,” a letter from Mayor Terry Gardner read. “You could choose to honor someone special or place a brick in memory of a loved one. A commemorative brick would also make a wonderful gift!”

Your sponsorship will help us reach our goals and will serve as a visible reminder of your commitment to the beautification of our city.”

More information regarding sponsorship for the Boots on the Boulevard event can be acquired by calling the city at 371-4258. Deadline for submission is March 18th.

Kennedy introduces Tracking Bad Actors Act to protect public from financial crime and abuse

WASHINGTON – Sen. John Kennedy (R-La.) today introduced the Tracking Bad Actors Act to create a public database of people who have committed financial crimes or have civil liability for financial misdeeds. Sen. Cynthia Lummis (R-Wyo.) is an original cosponsor of the bill.

“Financial fraudsters prey on investors like vultures. The Tracking Bad Actors Act would help expose these offenders to protect American families and workers against financial fraud,” said Kennedy.

“The world of finance is too opaque, and the Tracking Bad Actors Act would allow people in Wyoming and elsewhere to easily search a database to determine if their accountant or financial manager has broken federal financial laws. I’m proud to work with Senator John Kennedy to help consumers and bring greater transparency to our national financial sector,” said Lummis.

The Tracking Bad Actors Act would require the federal government to create a public database of bad actors convicted or held criminally or civilly liable for securities violations. This database would allow investors and brokerage firms to guard against people known to have engaged in fraud.

This information would be made available to the public, free of charge. To the extent practical, the bill would require the database to contain all enforcement actions agencies have taken.

The database would be operational within three years of the bill becoming law.

Text of the Tracking Bad Actors Act is available here.

Gas prices increase over 50 cents in past week, highest since 2008

(March 7, 2022) - Average gasoline prices in Louisiana have risen 51.0 cents per gallon in the last week, averaging $3.86/g today, according to GasBuddy’s survey of 2,436 stations in Louisiana. Prices in Louisiana are 69.9 cents per gallon higher than a month ago and stand $1.41/g higher than a year ago. The cheapest station in Louisiana was priced at $3.10/g yesterday while the most expensive was $4.99/g, a difference of $1.89/g.

“There are few words to describe the unprecedented rise in gasoline prices over the last week, with massive spikes coast to coast in both gasoline and diesel prices, as oil prices jump to their highest since 2008. Forget the $4 per gallon mark, the nation will soon set new all-time record highs and we could push closer to a national average of $4.50/gal. California could be heading for $5.50 per gallon with more stations charging $6 and beyond,” said Patrick De Haan, head of petroleum analysis at GasBuddy.

The national average price of gasoline has risen 46.5 cents per gallon in the last week, averaging $4.06/g today. The national average is up 61.1 cents per gallon from a month ago and stands $1.29/g higher than a year ago, according to GasBuddy data compiled from more than 11 million weekly price reports covering over 150,000 gas stations across the country.

“We’ve never been in this situation before, with this level of uncertainty. As we lose a major global producer under the weight of deserving bipolar sanctions for invading a sovereign country, the cost is high. Americans will be feeling the pain of the rise in prices for quite some time, with little good news foreseen.”

GasBuddy is the authoritative voice for gas prices and the only source for station-level data spanning nearly two decades. GasBuddy’s survey updates 288 times every day from the most diverse list of sources covering nearly 150,000 stations nationwide, the most comprehensive and up-to-date in the country.

Redistricting 60 years after Shelby vs. Holder

WILLIAM HAUPT III
Special to the Minden Press-Herald

"Elections should be held on April 16th - the day after we pay our income taxes." - Thomas Sowell

It has been almost six decades since "Bloody Sunday" in Selma, Alabama, when protesters were brutally assaulted by police in an act of defiance against voter disenfranchisement. This one event shifted public opinion and galvanized Congress to support and pass the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

The Voting Rights Act contained provisions requiring states with a history of alleged discriminatory voting laws and low minority turnout to have changes in election laws federally approved. Section 5 of the Act judged which states and districts would be singled out and subjected to "preclearance".

Passed right after the Civil Rights Act of 1964 when Segregationist Democrats still controlled most southern states, voting laws in every southern state were put under federal scrutiny by the DOJ.

While voter disenfranchisement existed in parts of the U.S. when the Voting Rights Act passed in 1965, within a few decades the states and districts subjected to preclearance became so socially and politically diverse, preclearance had become more of a punishment than an actual necessity.

The presidential election of 2000, the most racially and ethnically diverse in U.S. history, proved that preclearance had not only served its purpose, but it had also worn out its welcome. "If a man does not realize he has reached the end of the road, he will never start a new journey." - Seneca

In 2008, with Barack Obama running for president, Blacks voted at a higher rate than any time in U.S. history. The Pew Research Center reported Blacks voted at a higher percentage than whites. An analysis of census data showed that Blacks were 12% of the electorate on Election Day 2008.

In 2012, a record number of Hispanics voted and the Black vote increased to 13%, the same as their percent of population. The white electorate share has been in decline since 2000. With Barack Obama on the ticket it proved Blacks have a high share of electoral muscle, if they choose to use it.

"Everyone should have the right to vote, and this includes former felons." - Alexandria

Ocasio-Cortez

In 2013, Shelby v. Holder, citing the elections of 2008 and 2012, SCOTUS ruled that preclearance was unconstitutional since the South was being singled out unfairly, proven by electorate numbers.

"We can't continue to punish segments of the nation with 40 year old facts." - Justice Antonin Scalia

According to Justice Department data, the Attorney General received between 14,000 and 20,000 voting changes per year and over 95% of those changes affecting voting laws were ruled legal.

Today, the South is the most politically, ethnically, socially and economically diverse area in the US. But since 2015, U.S. Rep. Terri Sewell (D-AL) a Black Caucus member, has pitched H.R.4, the Voting Rights Advancement Act to reinstate preclearance in the south. The bill dies in committee each session.

After last year's record voter turnout, one would think the left's desire to resurrect "preclearance" is the new definition of insanity? If the Justice Department and the Courts agree there is no need to punish the south any longer, then why are the progressives still trying to reinstate preclearance?

The left has feared 2020 since the Supreme Court ruled on Shelby v. Holder. Now they must face the music. Joe Biden may have won the White House, but the GOP won more key state races. And these in-state GOP victories will be paying dividends for over a decade after Biden leaves office.

The census is a once-a-decade chance to redraw voting districts and cluster like minded voters to account for population changes. This gives those that draw the maps the ability to maximize areas that favor their party; aka gerrymandering. This is what made the 2020 general election so critical.

Both parties went into the election with a chance to draw congressional districts. And the GOP won big in the states. Republicans are set to control redistricting of 188 congressional seats, or 43% of the entire U.S. House. Democrats will have control of 73 seats, or 17% of the total House.

"If we had more Democrat drawn districts we'd be able to get a lot more bills to the floor." - Nancy Pelosi

A Pew Research survey in 2010 showed just 24% of those surveyed said they had more faith in the federal government to solve their problems than the states. A similar Emory survey showed that public confidence in state government was 68% higher than it was in the federal government.

When voters are unhappy with Washington, they seek protection from local politicians. Since 2008, states have rebelled against federalism by giving control of their legislatures to the GOP. During the Obama years, Democrats lost more House, Senate, state legislatures and governorships than under any other president. That gave the GOP control over a number of swing state legislatures.

As of January 17, 2022, Republicans had a trifecta in 23 states, and Democrats had 14. Only 13 states had divided governments where neither party held both houses and the governorship. This trend shows that as federalism expands, voters feel more secure with local state GOP leadership.

America was built on local government. Yet the left believes big government is the answer. They use every tool in their bag of tricks, including accusing the GOP of voter suppression to win federal elections. While they manipulate the upper hand in D.C., the GOP is winning elections in the states.

"The general election is not an organizational exercise. It's a mass media exercise" - Roger Stone Mitch McConnell told us, "The map doesn't win elections." Those who complain about redistricting forget "maps" don't influence how people vote. With every neighborhood in America racially diverse today, it is impossible to disenfranchise any group, precinct or district in our nation. In some cases, district maps might give the upper edge to one party, but it is the voters who decide the elections.

America is an entirely different nation today than it was in 1965, when the Voting Rights Act was passed. Most places where there was actual voter disenfranchisement don't have the same socio-political or cultural makeup today. And most claims about voter suppression or disenfranchisement are sour grapes by sore loser progressives with a dream to federalize every election in our nation.

As Loretta Lynn said: "We've Come a Long Way, Baby," since preclearance. It proves the Court's ruling on Shelby v. Holder was a long time coming and we do not need to turn back the hands of time. Those who complain about redistricting this year will have a chance to change it in a decade.

Voters, not maps, decide elections. "Research has shown that the perceived style of leadership is the most important thing to most voters in evaluating officeholders and candidates." - Robert Teeter

The Advocate: Mardi Gras is magic for Louisiana

If Mardi Gras is so great, one might ask as another Fat Tuesday arrives today, then why hasn't it been copied across the land?

Maybe it's because any effort to duplicate Mardi Gras beyond south Louisiana would surely lead to efforts to improve it, making it into something no one would recognize.

The charm of Mardi Gras — and its maddening complication — is its monstrous inefficiency. Even in temporarily shortened form in New Orleans, the parades are longer than any prudent planner would make them. The distribution of beads and other trinkets is random, excessive, profligate — in short, a reveler's rebuke to any student of logistics. As for the Mardi Gras diet — king cakes, cocktails, gumbo and goodness-knows-what-else — suffice it to say that it's a running revolt against restraint.

One can only imagine how a prudent reformer might refine Mardi Gras if it were attempted in some saner city — like Minneapolis or Peoria, say. The parades would be shorter, no doubt, more punctual, with an eye toward keeping everyone on schedule. Transplanted to tamer places, a Mardi Gras menu might replace king cake with bran muffins, bourbon with herbal tea, gumbo with tofu. Departing from the decadence of Fat Tuesday fashion, the revelers in this morally rehabilitated Fat Tuesday would all wear something not too form-fitting, complemented by sensible shoes.

But the magic of Mardi Gras — the one we know and love — is that it transcends the mean arithmetic of means and ends, the arid geometry of the straight line, the grim insistence that hard fact is somehow invariably better than heady fantasy.

Yes, Mardi Gras is too much — too much noise, too much food, too much stuff, too much togetherness. But like all holidays, it makes a meaning from its heedless plenitude.

Whether it's the over-the-top feast of Thanksgiving or the overdone celebration of Christmas, most of our holidays indulge in excess as a civic creed. It's our way of affirming abundance — our simple faith that life's fortune, even spent generously, bears the seeds of its own renewal.

Mardi Gras arrives at just the right time each year — after the merriment of yuletide has passed, and a weary world needs a bridge between the cheer of Christmas and the promise of Easter.

Even during the depths of a worldwide pandemic, Louisiana found a way to celebrate Carnival last year. The parades rested but house parades took their place.

So much has happened since last year's Mardi

Gras. The country has been touched by violence and anguished by politics that grow more divisive by the day, and not rumors of war but the real thing overhang this year's celebration. Given the continuing threat of coronavirus infections — dozens of children, among thousands of deaths in Louisiana — restraint may be forced on revelers. We hope and pray that there will be in the wave of excess a sensible caution.

We need Mardi Gras now more than ever, and we welcome its promise of a pause in life's cares, a chance to party and play.

So let the good times roll, and Happy Mardi Gras to all.

Lady Techsters take C-USA West hoops title

Minden Press-Herald Sports Service

RUSTON — This is how the west was won. From an 0-4 start to conference USA's West Divisional Champions, Louisiana Tech's Lady Techsters basketball team claimed its first conference title since 2011 with a win over Alabama-Birmingham inside the Thomas Assembly Center Saturday afternoon (82-56).

The title also marks the first for the Techsters since joining Conference USA.

"I'm just really proud of this group," said Tech coach Brook Stoehr. "From the players, to the assistants, to our trainers and managers. I'm just really proud. They have always believed, they kept their heads down — they just worked."

"Great teams have great teammates and that is exactly what we have in the locker room. They just want to win. As a former player in this program I am just so excited to watch them experience this. It's one thing to do that as a player but it is completely different getting to watch it as their coach. I'm just really proud."

Louisiana Tech (19-10, 11-7 C-USA) got off to another strong start, taking a 20-12 lead after the first quarter. Five Techsters scored in the stanza including two 3-pointers from Salma Bates to spark the Techsters' offense. Bates finished with nine points and six assists.

Tech continued to pour it on UAB (15-14, 8-10 C-USA) in the second quarter with runs of 12-0 and 10-0 to build a 24-point lead at halftime (44-20).

The Techsters and Blazers traded baskets for most of the third quarter as Tech was led by Lotte Sant who hit two of her four three-pointers in the quarter. Sant finished with a season-high 12 points.

UAB shaved five points off the lead, sending Tech 10 minutes away from the title up by 19 (56-37).

The Lady Blazers continued to fight in the fourth as the lead was trimmed to 15 (60-45) with 7:32 to play, but the combination of Keiunna Walker, Anna Larr Roberson, and Robyn Lee helped close the final minutes outpacing UAB 22-11 down the stretch for the 82-56 win.

Walker (20 points), Roberson (19), and Lee (11) all joined Sant in finishing the night in double scoring figures.

Walker's game-high 20 points was her 11th game this season with 20+ points as she also finished in double figures in 28 of her 29 games this season. Walker also flirted with another triple-double adding eight rebounds and six assists while nabbing four steals and drawing three more charges. She now has 40 on the year.

Roberson finished the regular season finishing in double figures 25 of her 28 games. Lee topped double figures for the sixth time.

Amaya Brannon also chipped in seven points and led the Techsters with seven rebounds.

Tech shot 50 percent on the night (33-66) and 58.8 percent from 3-point range (10-17) while UAB hit 21-49 shots for 42.9 percent and was 4-11 in 3-point shooting (.364).

The Louisiana Tech will take on the winner of the Western Kentucky/UAB game, a matchup that will take place at 1:30 p.m. CT inside the Ford Center Wednesday inside The Star.

Tech's first game in the tournament will take place on Thursday, Mar. 10 at 1:30 p.m. on Court A inside the Ford Center at The Star in Frisco, Texas.

Panthers' playoff run comes to end

A 10-point run by Lacassine in the fourth quarter was too much for fifth-seeded Doyline to overcome Friday night as the fourth-seeded Cardinals defeated the Panthers 74-66 in quarterfinals action of the Louisiana Class B boys basketball playoffs.

Dunkin' Dogs downed at Alabama-Birmingham

Minden Press-Herald Sports Service

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — After a back-and-forth first half between Louisiana Tech and UAB, the Blazers held the lead for the entire second half to hand the Bulldogs an 87-74 loss on Saturday afternoon in the regular season finale at Bartow Arena.

The first 20 minutes featured six ties and a flurry of lead changes as LA Tech (21-9, 12-6 C-USA) was down 39-36 going into halftime. The Bulldogs got two free throws from Amorie Archibald on their opening possession of the second half, but that was as close as they would get as the Blazers ended up building as much as a 15-point lead.

The 'Dogs did much of their offensive damage inside with 40 points in the paint. Kenneth Lofton, Jr. was a big part of that, recording his 16th double-double with 20 points and 10 rebounds.

However, UAB (24-7, 14-4 C-USA) matched that scoring inside while also getting five three-pointers apiece from guards Michael Ertel and Jordan Walker.

LA Tech looked out of it, down 75-61 with 3:52 to go, but its full court pressure forced back-to-back turnovers and in the span of 20 seconds they scored seven straight points to get to within seven.

The Bulldogs nearly got a defensive stop on the following possession, but Archibald was whistled for fouling Ertel on a three-point attempt that resulted in three made three throws to put the visiting team back down double-digits.

Cobe Williams and David Green were the recipients of back-to-back assists by Lofton, but the Blazers closed out the game on a 9-2 run.

LA Tech shot 47.5 percent from the field, but could only manage six 3-pointers. Half of those came from Keaston Willis who had 11. Archibald and Williams added 14 and 12 points, respectively.

UAB was efficient in all three phases — 56.1 percent from the field, 47.6 percent from 3-point range and 86.7 percent from the foul line. Jordan Walker and Ertel combined for 44 points.

"Any mistake we made today, UAB made us pay," said Tech coach Eric Konkol. "We are talking small mistakes like a missed rotation, bad feet, fouls. They scored in every single way possible. I was very pleased with the way we took care of the basketball. I did not think we lacked in effort today."

With the conclusion of the regular season, Louisiana Tech is the West No. 3 seed in the 2022 Heritage Landscape Supply Group C-USA Basketball Championships in Frisco, Texas.

LA Tech, which finished conference play with a 12-6 record, will await the winner of the FIU/Marshall game, a matchup that will take place at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

MLB reacts angrily to locked-out players, season still off

NEW YORK (AP) — Major League Baseball reacted angrily to the latest offer by locked-out players when bargaining resumed Sunday, accusing the union of backtracking and showing no sign of a breakthrough to get the derailed season back on track.

The squabbling sides talked for 95 minutes on the 95th day of the lockout, largely restating their positions to each other.

Talks broke off Tuesday after nine days of negotiations in Jupiter, Florida, and Commissioner Rob Manfred canceled the first two series of the season for each team, a total of 91 games.

If Manfred cancels two additional series through April 13 and 14, he would wipe out 93 more games and increase the total to 184.

That would move to the verge of threatening players with the loss of service time and delayed free agency.

This was the first meeting since last Tuesday. Manfred was in the MLB offices Sunday but did not attend the bargaining session, aimed at starting the first season delayed by labor strife since 1995.

The union followed the four-day recess by putting many of its proposals in writing.

"We were hoping to see movement in our direction to give us additional flexibility and get a deal done quickly," MLB spokesman Glen Caplin said. "The players' association chose to come back to us with a proposal that was worse than Monday night and was not designed to move the process forward. On some issues, they even went backwards. Simply put, we are deadlocked. We will try to figure out how to respond, but nothing in this proposal makes it easy."

Louisiana's catfish 'grand slam'

GLYNN HARRIS

Special to the Minden Press-Herald

The most satisfying thing I have accomplished in my lifetime of hunting has to be the completion of my wild turkey Grand Slam in 2003.

There is another grand slam I have to my credit that I've thought little about. In fact, I've completed this feat several times, as far as I can recall. This "grand slam," while not gaining me but a snippet of the acclaim I got from my wild turkey slam, was legitimate and what is significant about that is that I got the series of slams all right here in my home state.

What am I talking about? Catfish. I've been successful in landing the four species of catfish that live in Louisiana's fresh waters — the flathead, blue, channel, and bullhead, and I've done it several times over.

If you fish at all within the waters of Louisiana, you have no doubt duplicated my feat; you've caught all four species at one time or other and you probably never even thought of the possibility that you gained a measure of notoriety by landing a Louisiana Grand Slam of catfish.

Let's examine more closely the four species that make up the Bayou State Catfish Grand Slam.

FLATHEAD CATFISH

There is no way to pin down the absolutely best spot to catch a flathead catfish in Louisiana because they inhabit practically all of our lakes, rivers and larger streams. These are the fish mostly sought after by anglers bent on a night of "setting out hooks."

Channel catfish are on the menu of eateries everywhere and make for fine table fare.

A trotline or several limb lines are baited with live bait, such as bream, small bullheads or goldfish, with a return trip the following morning to see what's there. Finding a 40-pounder on your hook is not at all uncommon.

BLUE CATFISH

If you are looking for genuine heavyweights, blue catfish, especially those that inhabit our larger lakes and rivers, can grow to extreme sizes.

Ancient records boast of blue catfish weighing in the 250-300 pound range although the Louisiana record, caught in the Mississippi River in 1997, tipped the scales at 105 pounds. Again, no doubt larger specimens have been taken on trotlines and set hooks.

Blue catfish can be caught on a variety of baits, from live or cut shad to big crawfish to stink baits containing tainted chicken blood or rancid cheese.

Blue cats are the primary target of commercial fishermen but are also sought by recreational anglers.

CHANNEL CATFISH

When it comes to popularity, no catfish approaches the channel cat in popularity. These are the filets and small fiddlers you find on the platter at catfish restaurants all across the state. While these fish are generally pond raised, which controls their diet, wild caught channel catfish are also delicious on the table.

Around Louisiana, they are everywhere. Blindfold yourself, take a Louisiana map and jab a finger anywhere on the map and chances are, your digit is resting near a good spot to catch channel cats.

BULLHEAD CATFISH

While Louisiana keeps no records on bullheads, the largest ever caught and entered in the records weighed about 9 pounds and was caught in Michigan.

Those we caught as boys on Molido Creek down home weren't called bullheads; they were "mud cats" to us. Perhaps it was that name that caused us to shy away from them when they ended up on the table.

Bullheads live in practically every lake, pond, creek or slow-moving bayou all over the state. They are easy to catch and when cleaned properly and soon after being caught, they can be rather tasty when fried up golden brown.

Completing a wild turkey Grand Slam is quite a feat. A Louisiana Catfish Grand Slam is not so bad itself.

GLYNN HARRIS' OUTDOORS APPEARS TUESDAYS OR FRIDAYS IN THE MINDEN PRESS-HERALD.
