CRIME

Webster Parish jury finds man guilty in murder of Springhill man

STAFF REPORT
Minden Press-Herald

After less than an hour and a half of deliberation, a Webster Parish jury returned a unanimous guilty verdict of Second Degree Murder against Logan Smith, 23, in the killing of Springhill resident Anthony Bruns. The victim's body was found on the side of Percy Burns Road in Springhill on June 19, 2020. Bruns was killed in another location and dumped on the side of the road where he was found by a passing motorist. The Webster Parish Sheriff's Office was notified and immediately began working the case.

SMITH

"The Webster Parish Sheriff's Office should be commended for their excellent work in investigating this case and delivering us a strong case to prosecute. I am proud of the diligent work by both their office and ours to bring justice to this family" said District Attorney Schuyler Marvin.

During the trial, jurors heard testimony from Major Phillip Krouse, case agent from the Webster Parish Sheriff's Office, who walked them through the investigation and all the evidence that led investigators to Logan Smith including a missing shoe. When the victim's body was located he was missing a shoe. After an exhaustive investigation detectives located the shoe and a piece of bloody carpet in the back of a wrecked vehicle.

DNA testing determined that the blood was from the victim and the bloody carpet matched a piece that been ripped from a vehicle driven by Smith.

"This case was about trying to find a missing shoe, but it's no Cinderella story. It's a story about a cold blooded murderer who shot Anthony Bruns because, as he said he wanted relief from the devil that has been on him. Unfortunately, for the Bruns family, they get no relief", commented Assistant District Attorney Jimbo Yocom. "This

GAS BUDDY

Louisiana gas on the rise

(October 10, 2022) - Average gasoline prices in Louisiana have risen 22.0 cents per gallon in the last week, averaging $3.27/g today, according to GasBuddy’s survey of 2,436 stations in Louisiana. Prices in Louisiana are 10.9 cents per gallon higher than a month ago and stand 29.5 cents per gallon higher than a year ago. The national average price of diesel has increased 18.0 cents in the last week and stands at $5.04 per gallon.

According to GasBuddy price reports, the cheapest station in Louisiana was priced at $2.78/g yesterday while the most expensive was $4.29/g, a difference of $1.51/g. The lowest price in the state yesterday was $2.78/g while the highest was $4.29/g, a difference of $1.51/g.

The national average price of gasoline has risen 13.8 cents per gallon in the last week, averaging $3.92/g today. The national average is up 22.5 cents per gallon from a month ago and stands 67.0 cents per gallon higher than a year ago, according to GasBuddy data compiled from more than 11 million weekly price reports covering over 150,000 gas stations across the country.

“With OPEC+ deciding to cut oil production by two million barrels a day, we’ve seen oil prices surge 20%, which is the primary factor in the national average rising for the third straight week,” said Patrick De Haan, head of petroleum analysis at GasBuddy. “Some of the refinery snags that have caused prices to surge in the West and Great Lakes appear to be improving, with prices in those two regions likely to inch down, even with OPEC’s decision, as the drop in wholesale prices has offset the rise due to the production cut. But where gas prices didn’t jump because of refinery issues, they will rise a total of 10-30 cents due to oil’s rise, and some areas are certainly seeing the jump already. For now, I don’t expect much improvement in prices for most of the country, with California and the Great Lakes as the exception, with downdrafts likely in the days and weeks ahead.”

OTHER OPINION

Congress needs term limits

VERN WUENSCHÉ

Special to the Minden Press-Herald

Seventy percent of voters in both political parties support term limits. All candidates are likely missing a bet if they fail to support them before the November midterms. American voters, having wonderful common sense, know that many incumbents who increase their power year by year become more and more disconnected from their voters. In Lord John Dalberg-Acton's well-worn assessment: "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely."

Look at the benefits which would accrue from term limits. Many experienced candidates would become available for each level of higher office. If a U.S. House member were limited to a maximum of three two-year terms, an average of at least 145 experienced U.S. House members would be available to run for U.S. Senator or governor every two years.

If a U.S. Senator was limited to a maximum of two six-year terms, a minimum of thirty-three experienced U.S. senators would be available to run for governor or president every six years.

Today voters are understandably hesitant to lose the considerable clout of their long-time congressman developed over many years. But if all were short-timers, that would not be important. Voters would be more likely to elect candidates having great ability rather than seniority, as seniority would not matter.

Without the advantages held by long-time incumbents, elections would be more competitive. Voters would likely be more interested and more likely to be active in the election process.

Many more capable candidates would decide to run. Those entertaining running to day realize they must wait decades to obtain enough seniority to contribute. So those with ability desiring to make a difference rapidly will do something else. However, those who are more passive and only want a career in government do not mind waiting, which is why Congress today has more caretakers than doers.

Members of Congress would be seasoned, having more years of experience. As an uninterrupted career in public office would be more difficult, candidates would likely be much older. There would probably be many who were successful in various fields and wanted "to give something back." This greater wisdom would benefit us all.

Yet some argue that term limits deprive citizens of the right to vote for their chosen candidates while at the same time not allowing them the right to retain experienced and greatly loved officeholders. But we are already deprived of this right because we cannot vote for a president or most governors after the two terms they have served. To overcome this objection, an incumbent could be allowed to run, but only as a write-in candidate. A truly loved and respected incumbent should be able to win anyway.

Still, others say that under term limits the inexperienced officeholders would be captive to their own more experienced staff and lobbyists. Not true. Any successful leader shortly after taking a position hires and trains a team that will deliver their objectives. And being effective in doing that will take less effort today as the recent Supreme Court decision has reduced the administrative state's power. That decision alone will allow those in Congress to have more control of legislation.

The Articles of Confederation which preceded our Constitution included term limits. However, our founders at the time did not believe that any member of Congress would want to spend much time in fetid, swampy Washington D.C. so they did not include term limits. Candidates could help themselves and America today by supporting them.

OPINION

We can have everything we want if we help others

The magical, mystical power of belief is what it takes to move mountains -- to make dreams come true -- to have whatever we want out of life

There is a force at work in the universe that picks up -- plugs into -- connects with our spirits -- not only recognizing and appreciating our determination, thus reaching out and aiding, assisting and abetting our dreams into a reality!

I see this as God at work in the universe but its up to use to take that first step.

Even the Bible teaches that if we have faith "as a grain of mustard" we can move mountains!

But it takes that rare faith -- that first step -- that undying belief to put that force into action.

The lack of will -- verve -- tenacity -- that lackadaisical quality is not rewarded for very long if at all.

into motion on out behalf.

Why this is true I'm yet unclear but I know it's so.

It's only been when I've taken a dare -- gone out into the darkness with only a candle -- that progress has been made. It's only when I've stepped up onto the diving board of life -- not looking back or to one side that great things have happened in my life.

But we do have to take that first step of faith or we will continue to wallow in our own misery -- have our pity party unaware of the joy -- the exhilaration -- the ultimate high of doing that which produces tremendous fear -- yet providing a glow -- the radiance -- the joy -- the satisfaction of knowing that we've tried -- and achieved at least some of our goals -- that we've given life our best shot but we can't do it alone nor would we want to. other

After all the Bible still teaches "that if we want to be great that we must e servant" helping other people reach their goals. There's a magical, mystical power of belief that magnetically others to us when we do our best because our enthusiasm will be contagious.

Enthusiasm has been defined "as the God in you" which leads me to conclude by quoting the famous motivational speaker Zig Zigler who said "if you help other people to get what they want you can have everything you want."

We have to help each other because "we are not islands to ourselves" even though our talents differ.

Enough said for now.

No state income tax? Beware of legislators' posturing on tax cuts in election year

With vast experience in state government, including as lieutenant governor, Jay Dardenne's résumé is long. But one former capacity is particularly relevant to his current job: He was chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, a pivotal position in building the state's annual budget.

Dardenne is now commissioner of the Division of Administration, essentially budget chief for Gov. John Bel Edwards, so he knows the minefield as well as anybody.

Dardenne noted at a meeting of the higher education board that 2023 is both an election year and a fiscal session. The political calendar will include races for governor and legislative seats, and some lawmakers will be in their final session before term limits force them out. "You are going to have a lot of posturing going on," Dardenne said. "We don't think the Legislature ought to take any dramatic steps with regard to tax reform."

The House Ways and Means Committee recently launched a seven-month study on the possibility of eliminating the state income tax. Rep. Richard Nelson, R-Mandeville, and other backers note that fast-growing states like Texas and Florida have no state income tax.

"Where are you going to replace that huge amount of revenue that gins the state budget?" Dardenne asked.

It is a very relevant question. Overall, as the nonpartisan but conservative-leaning Tax Foundation reports, Louisiana and Texas and Florida are in the same tier as relatively low-tax states, when state and local costs are calculated together.

But the states do have very different ways to get the money.

Replacing the state income tax has been discussed before. But unless the state wishes to slash colleges and health care services, the income tax is today essential.

Sales taxes in Louisiana are already a perennial competitor for highest in the nation. Property taxes are very low in Louisiana compared to Texas and Florida, two states much envied in the Ways and Means Committee hearings.

Dardenne said the Legislature's discussion must include how the state would replace the roughly $5 billion in annual revenue now raised by the state income tax on individuals and corporations.

"Where are you going to replace that huge amount of revenue that gins the state budget?"

Dardenne asked.

Again, Dardenne knows the score. The income tax receipts to the state general fund are the mainspring of finances. That is obscured by the overall state budget of $39 billion — making a $5 billion cut sound small.

Not so: Much of that money is from federal funds, which must be used for specific purposes and can't provide for general state services. And much of the rest is pass-through money, as things like tuition paid by students to state government are accounted for in the budget number but can't — and shouldn't — be used for other purposes.

A large part of the general fund is itself dedicated, through the state Minimum Foundation Program for public schools. While in theory it is possible to cut schools funding, it's never been done — and for good reason, as education must be Louisiana's priority for spending.

When the income tax was previously targeted, about a decade ago in the administration of Gov. Bobby Jindal, sales tax was considered as an alternative source of revenue. Sales taxes would have had to be raised to enormous highs to make up the difference, so the idea was quickly shelved.

To convert to a system more like that in Texas, property tax millages would have to be raised to levels unheard of in Louisiana. As property taxes are unpopular politically, legislators are not likely to embrace a sweeping change.

Unless, as the old pro Dardenne observed, election-year posturing gets out of hand. Let's hope it doesn't.

Grambling falls to Alabama A&M in 2OT

Minden Press-Herald News-Service

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — The Grambling State University football team fought hard, but could not hold off Alabama A&M in a double-overtime thriller as the Bulldogs picked up a 37-31 Southwestern Athletic Conference (SWAC) victory on Saturday afternoon at Louis Crews Stadium.

Grambling State (1-5 overall, 0-3 SWAC) got the ball to begin the game, but the Tigers were forced to punt the football.

On Alabama A&M’s opening drive, Chandler Moncrief strip-sacked Xavier Lankford as Grambling State forced the turnover and started the drive at the Bulldog 12 yard-line. However, the Tiger offense could not move the football as Garrett Urban booted a 31-yard field goal, giving GSU a 3-0 lead with 5:44 remaining in the first quarter.

The Bulldogs (2-4, 2-1) used a fake punt on fourth-and-short to complete a 12-play, 70-yard drive as Donovan Eaglin, the SWAC Offensive Player of the Week, rushed 26 yards up the middle for the score, giving Alabama A&M a 7-3 lead at the end of the opening quarter.

The Tigers appeared to take the lead after a scoop and score by Rey Estes, but replay overturned the call when the runner was down.

That play loomed large as Alabama A&M went 75 yards in 9 plays as Harold Jemison Jr. scored on a 2-yard touchdown run as the Bulldogs took a 24-17 advantage with 10:21 left.

The Tigers got the ball back at their own 29 after an AAMU punt with 3:42 remaining. GSU moved the ball to the Bulldog 47 and got a fourth-down conversion when Calvez hit Rash for eight yards.

Grambling State continued to move the ball and was aided by personal foul (late hit) penalty, moving the ball to the AAMU 14 with 1:11 left and a Maurice Washington 6-yard touchdown completed a 10-play, 71-yard drive as the Tigers tied the game at 24 with 29 seconds remaining.

The Tigers got the ball to begin overtime and wasted little time as Calvez hit Noah Bean for a 26-yard touchdown as GSU grabbed a 31-24 lead.

Back came Alabama A&M as Keenan Hambrick caught a 7-yard touchdown pass from Casey, tying the game at 31 and sending the contest into a second overtime.

The Bulldogs’ offense began the second overtime frame and went 25 yards in 6 plays as Eaglin scored on a 2-yard touchdown run. However, AAMU elected to go for the 2-point conversion and the pass attempt failed as Alabama A&M led, 37-31.

Grambling State could not answer as Calvez was sacked on fourth down, ending the game and giving Alabama A&M the conference win.

LA Tech takes down UTEP, 41-31

No. 8 Tennessee dominates No. 23 LSU 40-13 in SEC showdown

Minden Press-Herald News-Service

RUSTON — Louisiana Tech started its “new” season off with a victory on Saturday night as the Bulldogs claimed their Conference USA opener by way of a 41-31 win over the UTEP Miners inside Joe Aillet Stadium.

It was all LA Tech (2-3, 1-0 C-USA) in the first half, building a 30-10 advantage midway through the game. However, UTEP (3-4, 1-1 C-USA) chipped away with a pair of touchdowns to make it a one-possession game at 30-24.

“We had a focus about us and I am proud of our response from last week,” said Tech coach Sonny Cumbie. “We made a conscience effort this week to take care of the football. Our offense was able to make plays.

“Our wide receivers showed up big tonight. We got knocked around a little bit in the third quarter. We gave up some plays over the middle and gave up some third-and-longs, but we tightened up. We were able to have a lead that forced UTEP to go for it in some situations. We made stops when we needed them and got takeaways.”

The Bulldog offense had lost all of its rhythm in the second half, going 3-and-out on their first three offensive drives. It was close to being four straight with about nine minutes left in the game as they were facing a 3rd-and-2 on their own 21-yard line.

Arguably the play of the game happened on the next possession as Parker McNeil and Tre Harris hooked up for a 64-yard reception. Then on the very next play, McNeil found Smoke Harris all alone in the end zone for a 15-yard score to put the game out of reach.

LA Tech was cruising early, scoring on four of its first five drives of the game. Tahj Magee was the recipient of an 8-yard touchdown reception to open the contest. That was followed by a 38-yard touchdown by Tre Harris to put the ‘Dogs on top, 14-0, just five minutes into the contest.

Smoke Harris caught his first receiving TD of the afternoon with two seconds left in the first quarter to make it 20-3. In the second quarter, UTEP got a 5-yard rushing score from Deion Hankins while LA Tech got a 44-yard pick six by Myles Brooks and a 28-yard field goal from Jacob Barnes to make a 30-10 lead.

The Bulldog defense continued to keep the Miners at bay, recovering a fumble in the end zone and then stopping the visitors on back-to-back 4th-down plays. However, UTEP punched through a pair of touchdowns in the span of three minutes to make it 30-24 with 10:18 still to go.

Then came the 4-play, 87-yard touchdown drive for the Bulldogs, which included the long reception to Tre Harris, to push the lead out to 38-24 after a converted 2-point conversion.

No. 8 Tennessee 40, LSU 13

BATON ROUGE (AP) — As dynamic quarterback Hendon Hooker and his Tennessee teammates left the field in a mostly empty Tiger Stadium, nearly all the fans who remained were wearing orange and belting out the lyrics to “Rocky Top.”

Hooker passed for two touchdowns, Jabari Small ran for 127 yards and two scores, and No. 8 Tennessee punished No. 25 LSU for its mistakes and risk-taking in a resounding 40-13 victory on Saturday.

A morning kickoff lured fans to Death Valley earlier than usual — and many were gone by the end of the third quarter, when Tennessee led 37-7.

The Volunteers (5-0, 2-0 Southeastern Conference) matched their best start to a season since 2016 with balance on offense, sound defense that corralled dual-threat LSU QB Jayden Daniels, and opportunistic special teams play.

“We have found a way to be the best team on the field the last five weeks,” Tennessee coach Josh Heupel said. “Our players have worked hard and more importantly expect to play very well. They expect to win.”

Bobby Creek comes up with hog-proof gate

GLYNN HARRIS

Bobby Creel, who lives near Jonesville, was standing one day and looking at his field that had paid the price of an abundance of feral pigs and decided he had to try and do something about it. The wheels started turning and he began imagining a system that would get hogs into a trap and prevent them from getting back out.

“I had this idea, went home that night and didn’t go to bed until I had sketched out a gate that in my mind would work,” Creel said. Apparently the U.S. Patent Office thought he had something special because they issued him a provisional patent after he contacted them with details of what he had in mind.

Since starting to produce his gate in March, Creel knows of some 200 feral pigs that have been caught in traps using his special door. The concept that formed in Creel’s mind had to do with a hogs tendency to use his snout to root.

“We set out the gate in a conventional trap and leave the gate open for awhile until hogs start getting accustomed to it. Then we drop it a little at a time until we have hogs entering the trap to enjoy what we call an ‘all you can eat buffet’. Then we drop the heavy-duty metal mesh all the way down and the hogs continue to root under the mesh to get in. Once they try to get out, they can’t because of the way the mesh lays out. They can root to get in but they can’t root their way out,” Creel said.

Creel operates an auto repair business near Jonesville where has been in business for 37 years.

“I’m 59 years old and

Bobby Creel of Jonesville has developed a sure fire way to capture feral hogs.

am giving thought to getting the hog gate business up to the point that I can turn the auto repair work over to my sons and spend my time developing these special gates to help folks with their hog problems,” he said.

Creel says it takes maybe two hours to put one of his special gates together. He is working on getting his product out to more sporting goods stores but as of now, there is one business in Jena that carries his product and otherwise, he’s selling them from his shop.

“The word is getting out about our hog gates and I even had a contact from the country of India where they had heard of our product. Also,” he added, “some of the products on the market today that operate by a remote system whereby a gate can be dropped by use of a cell phone. I was talking to someone using these types of gates and he mentioned having to sit up and wait for his phone to ‘ping’ to trip the gate. I told him that when I have my door laid out right, I go home and go to sleep because all I have to do is go back the next morning and take care of the hogs that have gotten in the trap by themselves and can’t get out.”

When he finds that his trap has worked and he dispatches those that are there and can’t get out, he has folks lined up to take the hogs for home consumption.

“Last week, I went to the trap one morning to find 13 hogs the trap had captured. I contacted folks and had them lined up to come get the hogs I had caught,” Creel said.

The C&C Catchall Hog Gates can be purchased at Creel’s business in Jonesville or by contacting him at 318/452-6742 or his son Tyler at 318/452-6589.

He is selling the fully constructed door, freshly painted with the heavy wire mesh door for somewhere in the neighborhood of $,000.

In my opinion that is a small price to pay because first, you are putting a dent in the feral hog population on your property and second, you can go to sleep at night while the Catchall Hog Gate is doing the work for you.
