ST. JUDE AUCTION

Minden unites for St. Jude: $2.5M raised as community races, cooks, and donates!

STAFF REPORT Minden Press-Herald

The Minden St. Jude Auction saw another record breaking year with the event raising a whopping $2,538,444 for the Children's Research Hospital. This feat was only attainable through the efforts of volunteers who worked throughout the weekend to make the auction function, the sponsors who helped the event, whether through funding, raffle items, or auction items, and most importantly the generous viewers who chose to help fight the fight against children's cancer all while taking home some great items at the same time. Despite the adverse weather conditions, the Minden Run for St. Jude demonstrated remarkable community support, amassing an impressive total of $100,230, underscoring the collective commitment towards advancing the cause of pediatric healthcare and research at St. Jude's Research Center. The event, aimed at supporting the St. Jude's Research Center, commenced with the Kids

Fun Run, where young athletes from the region showcased their spirit. A. Ramsey of Minden clinched the top spot, followed by B. Marks of Haughton in second place and E. Harmon, also from Minden, securing third place. Following the youthful energy, the 10K race unfolded, witnessing Keith Pitman of Minden seizing the victory, trailed by Anna Lake Watts, also of Minden, in second place, and Kenichi Pass from New Boston, Texas, securing third. The momentum continued with the commencement of the 5K race, where Nathan Vogel of Campti led the pack, followed by Graham Gordy of Shreveport in second place and John Hiltom

Ferguson III, also hailing from Shreveport, in third. Another big event for the weekend was the Minden St. Jude Chili Cook-off which raised a total of $16,245 to go towards the Auction. In the main competition, the judges selected Big Jon's Big Eats with

Webster Parish man wanted for attempted murder in Minden shooting

STAFF REPORT
Minden Press-Herald

Authorities in Webster Parish are actively seeking a suspect wanted for attempted second-degree murder following a shooting incident in Minden last week.

The Minden Police Department responded to reports of a shooting in the 600 block of Martin Luther King Drive, where they found a man suffering from multiple gunshot wounds. The victim was subsequently transported to Ochsner LSU Health for treatment. Further investigation revealed a second victim who had been shot in the leg but initially did not seek medical treatment.

During the course of the investigation, authorities identified 28-year-old Jaryon Stephens as the alleged perpetrator of the shooting. A warrant has been issued for Stephens on the charge of attempted second-degree murder.

Collaborative efforts between the Minden Police Department, the City Marshal's Office, and the Webster Parish Sheriff's Office are underway to apprehend Stephens, utilizing all available resources.

Minden Police Chief McIver expressed confidence in the efforts, stating, "I feel confident we'll be catching him soon," while urging the public to come forward with any information regarding Stephens' whereabouts. "We encourage the public to contact us if they see him or know his whereabouts. We will make sure they stay anonymous."

Individuals with information regarding the location of Stephens should contact the Minden Police Department at 318-377-1212.

Louisiana State Representative McMahan outlines legislative priorities for upcoming sessions

AMBER MCDOWN
Minden Press-Herald

In an exclusive interview with the Minden Press-Herald, State Representative Dr. Wayne McMahan shed light on the imminent legislative agenda set to unfold in Baton Rouge. Anticipating a three-week special session closely followed by the regular session, McMahan delineated key topics earmarked for deliberation.

Crime, touted as a paramount concern, tops the legislative docket. "We have a high crime rate across our state and, if you don't have a safe state, it's hard to keep your kids here when they graduate from college," stated McMahan. Governor Landry's past tenure as attorney general augurs well for having a deep understanding of the problems of crime in Louisiana. "I think he understands the issues that we're dealing with in this state."

McMahan anticipates that lowering the age of criminal responsibility back to 17 years will be one of the topics discussed. In 2016, the law was changed and, at that point, 17-year-olds started being treated as juveniles in the criminal court system. Within the juvenile system, more crimes — especially violent crimes — are committed by 17-year olds than any other age. This legal change has caused the juvenile system to be overwhelmed, without enough spaces to hold these young people. It has also become an additional problem that this age group causes the most problems within the system as well. "Down at Ware [Youth Center], one of the big issues that they've had is that the 17-year-olds are disrupting the facilities and making it hard for them to take care of the 13- to 16-year-olds," said McMahan.

Among the many topics likely to be part of these sessions, Representative McMahan hopes to include the management of Louisiana's natural resources, addressing the problem of students reading below grade level, ways to increase availability of healthcare in rural communities, and funding infrastructure repairs and enhancements, especially bridges in rural areas.

Representative McMahan hopes that, as the Louisiana Legislature addresses the many issues they will be handed, they will take a long-term proactive approach rather than just reacting to individual problems. "I look back over the last 40 to 50 years, and I think our state has been reactionary. We react to the issues as they come up, and we very seldom have a long-range goal of how to get our state in a better position."

As the legislative landscape beckons, Representative McMahan exudes optimism, viewing the upcoming term as an opportunity for transformative change. "I'm excited about the next four years. The more I think about it, the more opportunities we have to make our state better."

DONATION

Minden Police Association donates to injured Sheriff's Deputy Sgt. Aaron Barnes

STAFF REPORT
Minden Press-Herald

Webster Parish Sheriff's Deputy Sgt. Aaron Barnes, who was seriously injured in an accident January 30 while directing traffic north of Dixie Inn, is the recipient of a donation from an organization of fellow law enforcement officers.

PARKER

Sheriff Jason Parker was handed a check Thursday for $1,000 from the Minden Police Association (MPA) to help Barnes and his family with expenses incurred since a vehicle struck the deputy, sending him to a Shreveport hospital with numerous severe injuries.

"I know this check says Minden Police Association, but this is a fellow officer who might need a little help," said Minden Police Dept. Lt. Joel Kendrick, MPA president. "We're happy to be able to do this for him and his family, and we wish him a very speedy recovery."

Barnes, whose injuries included a broken tailbone, broken nose, fractured ankle, severe lacerations to his forehead and lower body and road rash, underwent successful surgery in the days following the accident. His recovery has been progressing well, officials said, and he has been released from the hospital.

"We talk to him just about every day and he tells us he's feeling better each day," Sheriff Parker said. "He's at home and is doing some walking, but he has to take it easy. It's a blessing that he's doing well, considering what happened."

Barnes was standing beside his vehicle just outside the northbound lane on U.S. Hwy. 371 north of Dixie Inn, directing traffic when he was struck by a northbound Toyota SUV around 7 p.m. Louisiana State Police investigators are still working the incident. Witnesses said the truck did not appear to reduce speed before striking Barnes.

Parker said the MPA donation is "...a very generous gesture by our fellow law enforcement officers. We appreciate it very much and I know Aaron will be grateful for what they've done. It means a lot to all of us."

Parker said the Sheriff's Office is also planning a fundraiser to benefit Barnes early next month. Plans have not been finalized, but the Sheriff said a food favorite will be on the menu.

OPINION

LNG Export Ban Continues Biden Attack on U.S. and Louisiana Energy Industry

I have recounted before the numerous ways—fearful of the Climate Change Religionists and the Green New Deal lunatics—that the Biden Administration has undermined and damaged the U.S. oil and gas industry, including in Louisiana.

During the 3 plus years of his Administration, Pres. Biden has shuttered and halted pipelines and closed off millions of acres in the U.S. to drilling. The Department of the Interior cancelled oil and gas lease sales for over one million acres in Alaska's Cook Inlet and also canceled two Gulf of Mexico leases, while generally making the leasing and permitting process significantly more difficult.

The fundamental question remains—knowing as we do that energy security is national security—why would our government ever choose to weaken domestic energy and, therefore, make our country more vulnerable to and dependent upon bad actors, including those who hate us and seek to harm us such as Venezuela, Iran, Russia, and China?

To the contrary, recall that in Pres. Trump's last month in office, Jan. 2021, America was producing more oil than it was consuming for the first time in 50 years and was exporting energy to the EU. The Trump Administration had made America energy independent, meaning we not only were providing for our own national energy needs but, in fact, had become a net exporter of energy to other nations, thereby making most of Western Europe far less dependent upon Russia for their energy. But here we go again.

The Biden Administration has engaged in a permit freeze for new liquified natural gas (LNG) export projects by essentially rewriting the rules. As noted by the Wall Street Journal "the Energy Department is required by law to approve permits to export LNG to countries with which the U.S. doesn't have freetradements if they are in the 'public interest.' The department has never rejected a permit. But now the Administration plans to do so by redefining 'public interest' to include the potential impact on the climate." (WSJ, 2-5-24).

And, although the Biden Administration is downplaying the number of permits and projects that would be affected, the truth is that "the Administration is deliberately creating uncertainty about permit approvals and extensions to chill investment and discourage foreign governments from signing long-term contracts. Why risk investing in or signing a purchase agreement with a Gulf Coast project that may later be killed? Smarter to link up with the Qataris." (WSJ, 2-5-24).

This permit freeze directly harms the U.S. economy given that "a single LNG export project will produce about $600 billion in revenue over its lifespan and create thousands of jobs, including in steel manufacturing and fracking—no government subsidies required." (WSJ, 2-5-24).

Here in Louisiana, our Department of Economic Development (LED) proudly notes that "Louisiana boasts three of the nation's seven LNG export terminals, with more facilities planned. Louisiana also possesses nearly 50,000 miles of integrated pipelines that crisscross every major highway, railroad, and navigable waterway in the state. Louisiana also holds 8% of the nation's natural gas reserves." (LED website).

LED also estimates that the economic impact of LNG in Louisiana is 18,000 jobs, $4.4 billion contributed to statewide economic impact, and $178 million in state tax revenue.

This action by the Biden Administration is reckless and shortsighted. When America's allies think the U.S. cannot be relied upon for their natural gas needs, it forces them to negotiate with America's enemies. I also note that while the Climate Religionists are celebrating this "victory" from the Biden Administration, China is estimated to have built or is building 305 coal-fired power plants. Those CO2 emissions are immeasurable, and nothing will stop it.

We are not going to be able to be free of fossil fuels for decades if not generations. Renewable energy sources can't come anywhere near meeting America's or the world's energy needs right now. The folly and danger of this is that the Biden Administration is allowing America to be economically and strategically hamstrung when the rest of the world won't cooperate with ending fossil fuels, but our friends and allies will know they can't rely upon us.

Also, beyond the climate insanity, a secondary motive of Biden's LNG ban is rumored to be to punish Texas and Governor Gregg Abbott for standing up to the Biden Administration effort to cut down the razor wire that Abbott has placed on much of Texas' border to stop the illegal alien invasion.

This must stop..

“A Journey Of A Thousand Miles Begins With A Single Step”

According to the American Foundation For Suicide Prevention the cause of death by suicide is the tenth leading cause of death in the United States.

Robin Williams, a suicide victim said “No matter what people tell you, words and ideas can change the world.”

I was devastated to learn of the suicide of our beloved comedian Robin Williams who died on August eleventh in 2014. I feel compelled to lend support to all of those who are suffering from mental illness or deep depression. According to the American Foundation For Suicide Prevention the cause of death by suicide is the tenth leading cause of death in the United States.

We can talk about the weather. We can talk about international affairs. We can talk non-stop. Dan Rather and Peter Jennings taught us to do just that but why is it that it is so difficult for us to talk about the emotional issues that plague our souls?

From the richest to the poorest -- to those in-between -- our emotions are our common bond.

Why is it so difficult to read each other's thoughts? Why do we have to wait until our loved ones are gone to reach out and to extend the type of care that reaches beneath the surface?

It's easy to talk about our trips, our nights out on the town but much more difficult to go deep into the hearts and souls of those within our midst but this is where true communication begins.

Without this depth of communication we can never know the real joy of being joined heart to heart and soul to soul.

A friend one time told me that she was so depressed because an acquaintance of hers had unexpectedly committed suicide. She asked me “why is that we are so slow to ask others if they are depressed?” She had noticed that the woman looked rather depressed but she never reached out to find out if there was something bothering her.

Sometimes it just takes a word or question to start another talking or a touch on the shoulder to start a conversation. We need to know someone cares.

It takes courage to open up and allow others to know that we are hurting. It is so hard to be a good listener. I have one friend who would rather talk than listen. And when I try baring my soul I get condemnation rather than encouragement so I am so slow to share my hurts that choke me in the night.

Without active listening a friendship will seldom reach a higher level of communication. Passive listening comes easy.

Someone said that we only hear twenty percent of what others say. The reason being is that we can get caught up hearing our own selves think, waiting our turn to tell our story.

It takes empathy, compassion to read what others feel but can't articulate.

Minden's Weekend of Triumph: Community Generosity and Sporting Glory

This past weekend, Minden witnessed an extraordinary convergence of generosity and sporting triumph, leaving an indelible mark on our community's history. As the echoes of celebration still resound, it's evident that this weekend will be cherished in our memories for years to come.

The pinnacle of this weekend's festivities was undoubtedly the Minden St. Judge Auction, an event that surpassed all expectations by raising a staggering $2,538,444 for cancer research at a hospital in Memphis. The outpouring of support from our community was nothing short of remarkable, as individuals from all walks of life came together to contribute to this noble cause. The Civic Center buzzed with excitement as bids flew and pledges poured in, demonstrating once again the unwavering spirit of generosity that defines Minden.

Such overwhelming participation wasn't without its challenges, as evidenced by the temporary disruption of internet service at the Civic Center due to the sheer volume of activity. Yet, this minor inconvenience pales in comparison to the collective impact of our community's efforts, symbolizing the power of unity in pursuit of a common goal.

Amidst the fervor of the auction, another celebration unfolded, thousands of miles away. Former Minden High and Louisiana Tech standout, L'Jarvis Sneed, secured his status as a two-time Super Bowl champion as his Kansas City Chiefs clinched a thrilling victory over the San Francisco 49ers in Super Bowl XLIII.

Sneed's journey from the gridiron of Minden to the grand stage of the Super Bowl exemplifies the resilience, determination, and talent that characterize our community's finest. His triumph serves as an inspiration to aspiring athletes across Minden, reaffirming the belief that with hard work and dedication, dreams can indeed become reality.

As we reflect on the events of this past weekend, let us not only celebrate the tangible achievements but also the intangible bonds of solidarity and pride that unite us as a community. Whether it's rallying behind a charitable cause or cheering on a local hero, Minden exemplifies the true essence of community spirit.

In the face of adversity and triumph alike, we stand together, stronger and more united than ever before. As we carry the memories of this extraordinary weekend forward, let us continue to embody the values of compassion, generosity, and perseverance that define Minden, ensuring that our community's legacy of excellence endures for generations to come.

Headgear of bucks quite a story

GLYNN HARRIS

Here's hoping your deer season was as successful as you hoped it would be. If you have been sitting down to meals of chicken-fried backstrap steaks or a tasty roast or found your breakfast of eggs tasting especially good with rounds or links of venison sausage on the side, you have for sure been successful. If you're anxiously waiting for a call from the taxidermist telling you the mount of your trophy is ready for pick-up and hanging on the wall, pat yourself on the back; it's been a good year for you. You may be having withdrawal symptoms now that season is over and you really wish you get to spend just one more frosty morning in a deer stand. You're not alone in this. Scores of hunters feel the same way. What can deer hunters do as a form of recovery to help you get over your addiction to chasing deer? Here's a suggestion – head for your woods and begin looking for shed antlers of the big buck you hunted all season but never showed up. Now that antlers are beginning to drop, the next several weeks offer the opportunity to locate sheds before the mice and squirrels begin gnawing on them. Here's what happens in the world of the deer. Buck deer drop their antlers in late winter or early spring. Soon after losing their headgear, they start growing a new set of antlers they'll have until this time next year. This new set begins as fuzzy knobs grow-

This is the time of year to begin searching for shed antlers as bucks drop them before beginning growing ing on the pedicles which are located on the buck's head between his eyes and ears. The newly formed antlers are soft and subject to damage and for this reason, bucks are shy and reclusive; they're protective of this new growth. A couple of months before shedding antlers, bucks use them to hook and thrash bushes, brush and small saplings and to fight other bucks to establish dominance. Bushes and bucks are in no danger of being gored and thrashed in spring and summer because he is protecting his newly forming soft antlers. Velvet is described as "vascular skin that supplies oxygen and nutrients to the growing bone." This amazing material causes the antler it covers to grow at an amazing rate. In fact, deer antlers grow faster than any other mammal bone. This fast rate of growth actually is a handicap to a buck because of the incredible nutritional demand on deer to re-grow antlers annually. Once the antlers achieve their full potential for the year, usually by mid-September in our part of the world, the velvet has served its purpose and as it dries and is rubbed off on bushes by the buck, the antler bone actually dies and here's something I read that gave me pause. What deer hunters see when that big buck comes slipping by the stand is an animal sporting a head full of dead bone. Where should you look for the best chance to find shed antlers? If you planted a food plot prior to deer season, searching the plot or trails leading to the plot can often result in a bit of good luck when you find tines sticking up out of the grass. Another good place to look is where a trail crosses a low fence or stream small enough for the buck to jump across. Antlers can sometimes be jarred loose when the buck lands on the other side of the fence or stream. So for folks puzzled about deer antlers, maybe this bit of information will answer your questions. There is a measure of excitement to hold in your hands the head gear of a big buck that will whet your appetite for what he'll look like once hunting seasons roll around again this coming fall. The entire process of bucks growing velvet covered delicate antlers to them becoming hardened and eventually being shed just to do it all again every year is one of nature's most amazing and fascinating feats.

OPENING OUR HEARTS TO JESUS

We see young ladies wearing ‘heart lockets’ often. Seeing this reminds me of the story of a young English girl who wore one and never allowed anyone to open or look inside. There was a mystery surrounding the thought of ‘what romantic notion’ might be concealed (probably a picture of one she loved). After she died, the locket was opened. A small slip of paper was found with these handwritten words: “Whom having not seen, I love.” Under this was a drawing of a cross.

When she ‘gave her heart to Jesus,’ she made a total commitment to allow Him to be Master of all. Isn’t that what God demands (Duet 10:12-13; Matt 22:37-40)? Isn’t that what Jesus taught His disciples when He called them into service (Luke 9:23-24)? Since God is love (1 John 4:16), we ought to also love Him with all our heart.

Bill Crider

We are called to reflect that love each day of our lives. John writes these sobering words, “The world will know we are Christians by the way we love others” (John 13:34-35). We are called to be reflectors of His love, shining into a world of darkness. Jesus said, “Let your light so shine (in the darkness) so others can see it as it reflects the glory of the Lord (Matt 5:14-16). God sent forth His only Son ‘while we were yet sinners’ to give his life to change our sinful actions through faith. It was through God’s unlimited grace that raised the word “love” to the highest degree and brought a new meaning to it. Even though “the love of God is greater far than tongue or pen can ever tell,” a love-chip from His heart resides in each of our hearts as well, when we embrace Jesus as our personal Savior. *(Lehman/ Nehoria – Baptist Hymnal pg 111; 2008 Edition). This is a good time to unlock the locket of your heart and see if it still contains the presence of Jesus’ love. Or has your devotion for God been replaced by some cheap affection, source of desire, or other relationships? As we renew our love-vows to each other (spouse, family, friends), during Valentine season, let us also take some private time this week to renew our love for Jesus and give Him the key to the lock-et of our heart, once and for all..

Significant Places: Mount of Olives

“So then, when the Lord Jesus had spoken to them, He was received up into heaven and sat down at the right hand of God.” Mark 16:9 NASB

For a period of forty days after His resurrection, Jesus appeared and spoke to the disciples (Acts 1:1-11). He then led them just east of Jerusalem to the Mount of Olives as far as Bethany (Luke 24:50-53). There on the eastern slope of the mount He ascended into heaven and took His place sitting on the throne at the right hand of God (Ephesians

1:20). There Jesus sits, enthroned with power and glory, awaiting His triumphant return. For in the same way He ascended in the clouds, He will return. Lord Jesus, like the early disciples, I worship You as my Savior and Lord, enthroned in power and glory, and as the coming King to judge and rule the world. ## Divine Instructions

The first thing you learn as a child in school is how to follow instructions. It seems that as we get older we tend to forget the lessons of the past. Well I’m here to tell everyone today that it is time to go back to school. In the book of Exodus God wanted to see if the children of Israel could follow some simple instructions. He provided food in the form of bread rained down from heaven. He provided simple instructions to the people. The first of the lord’s instructions was to gather only what you needed. The second was to not save any for the next day unless you were gathering for the sabbath. However the children of Israel still felt the need to test the limits of God’s rules. What the children of Israel didn’t realize is God gives us instructions to empower us. God’s instructions aren’t there to hold us back but to propel us forward. When we follow God’s instructions we walk in his righteousness and in his authority. I pray today that as we walk through life we walk in God’s instructions. I pray that we would all go out into the world spreading the good news of his glory, grace, and love. BERNARD HARRIS III IS A HAUGHTON FIREMAN AND A LOCAL RESIDENT OF MINDEN

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

9	1	6	2	4	5	7	8	3
4	8	7	6	3	1	5	9	2
3	5	2	7	8	9	1	6	4
5	9	3	8	1	7	2	4	6
1	6	4	9	2	3	8	5	7
2	7	8	5	6	4	3	1	9
6	4	1	3	7	8	9	2	5
7	2	9	1	5	6	4	3	8
8	3	5	4	9	2	6	7	1
