City receives clean audit, approves new appointments and legal counsel

WILL PHILLIPS

Minden Press-Herald

The annual audit for the City of Minden was presented at the May meeting of the Minden City Council. Representatives Tim Green and Jennie Henry from Allen, Green, & Williamson, LLP COX attended to share the findings.

"The opinion, as well as in the previous years, is an unmodified opinion. That's saying that we're not recommending any modification be made to the report," said Henry.

Henry also noted that a single audit was required this year, as the city received over $750,000 in federal funding. While last year's federal coverage totaled $200,000, this year it was up to $4.6 million.

These funds supported several major projects, including the construction of a parallel taxiway at the Minden Airport, a community development block grant for a sewer project, and state and local fiscal recovery funds used for the public works control center, the Community House, and the REC Center study. Allen. Green, & Williamson tested all three projects, and Green delivered their audit findings.

The main recommendations included transitioning more city departments to a time-clock system for tracking employee hours, adjusting how street infrastructure is accounted for - either by reverting to a depreciation method or changing the rating threshold — and producing an annual report for the airport improvement program.

Minden observes National Day of Prayer with community gathering

WILL PHILLIPS Minden Press-Herald

On May 1, community members gathered at a special ceremony to mark the National Day of Prayer, joining millions across the nation in lifting up the country in faith. Led by Mayor Nick Cox and local clergy, the event focused on unified prayer for key pillars of American life: government, military, media, business, education, business, church, and family.

"The National Day of Prayer has a rich history, first signed into law by President Harry S. Truman in 1952 and later designated by President Ronald Reagan in 1988 as the first Thursday in May. Every president since has issued a proclamation encouraging Americans to unite in prayer," said Mayor Cox. "Here in Minden, we proudly continue that tradition, joining millions across the country in this sacred act of faith."

saw over forty young talented artists from various schools throughout Webster Parish display their artwork on the interesting canvas of a skateboard deck.

"We're here tonight to celebrate some amazing artwork by students from all over Webster Parish," said event creator Patrick Miller.

Miller was inspired to create the event as skateboard decks were an art form that pushed him to get into graphic design early in his career.

"I started in graphic design because of skate-board artwork like this. Still at fifty years old, I collect skateboard decks because it connects me to my past and the things I was passionate about as a young person learning about the arts," said Miller.

"To see this work is very exciting, because it connects my youth, but it also accentuates the fact that y'all are talented artists, doing amazing things."

While all the decks were fantastic displays of young talent, some went above and beyond and were recognized for different categories, including most creative, best use of materials, and best in show. The Most Creative title was awarded to Sharia Washington, the Best Use of Materials was awarded to Daisy Collins, and the best in Show was awarded to Itzayeny Urbina. Honorable mentions included Ava, Skylie, Kynlee, Bella, Maggie, and Autumn.

STAFF REPORT

Minden Press-Herald

Two individuals were arrested, Simuel Shaw and Demetrius Miller, and a warrant was issued for the third, Decorry Bridges, after they attempted to evade law enforcement by trespassing onto a residential property, feigning as though they were one of their family members. While they were there, they had removed a security camera from its premises, while a search by officers found both with a gun and drugs.

A Minden Police Officer was out on patrol when they observed three subjects walking northbound on Cherry Street in the middle of the roadway. The officer drove up the road, observing the subjects while waiting for officers to arrive on the scene. The officer stated in the report that Bridges appeared to be knocking on the door while Shaw and Miller waited on the side of the house.

The officer eventually approached the house and the subjects, asking what they were doing at the residence. Bridges began speaking for the group and stated that he was attempting to make contact with his Aunt. A little while later, the owners of the residence walked outside and told the officer, "They had never seen these subjects was advised of their rights per Miranda and taken into custody.

With the other two subjects not having any active warrants, the officers told them they were free to go. Before they left, however, an officer recommended that they walk around the residence to make sure no evidence or property was left there. After receiving permissions from the property owners, they walked to the back of the residence.

"I observed a black glock handgun with a magazine," the large booking report stated. Another officer, "observed a removed security camera sitting on a window air conditioning

"I spoke with the residents again and confirmed the firearm did not belong to them. They also stated all previous security cameras were operational. (They) said they now wished to pursue charges."

One of the officers se-

Both Miller and Shaw were advised of their Miranda rights per and taken to the Minden Police Department for booking. Shaw was charged with possession of a firearm by a convicted felon, resisting an officer, criminal trespassing, and vandalizing, tampering with, or destroying a crime camera system. The board approved field trips for Richardson Elementary's top Accelerated Reader classes and Doyline High School's 3rd through 5th grade students, both to the Caldwell Zoo in Tyler, Texas. Minden High School's cheer squad will attend UCA Camp in Fort Worth, Texas in June, and three School Food Service staff members will attend a national conference in San Antonio, Texas in July.

An item requesting services from Civil Design Group LLC was pulled from the agenda after Board Member Susan Addington of District 12 requested to reconsider the estimated $800,000 parking lot project.

A base bid of $5,877,000 was awarded to Walker Construction Company of Ruston for athletic improvements at North Webster High School and Mc-Mahan Park in Springhill.

Special Education Supervisor Melanie Lewing and staff discussed the Webster Works program, which connects students with special needs to local businesses for work experience. Five businesses are currently participating. "I'm super thrilled with where this is going," said Jessica McKaskle, special education transition facilitator.

The board entered into executive session regarding Bradford v. WPSB,

Following the audit Mayor presentation, Nick Cox emphasized its importance: "The audit is how we know if we're doing our jobs right or not, and keeps us accountable to the citizens, and this is your demonstration that we're trying our best to run the city as appropriately and right as we can." In other council business, several appointments to boards and commissions were approved. Kasi Kendrick was appointed to the Minden Main Street Program/Downtown Development Commission, with her term ending September 8, 2026. Derek Peris was appointed to Minden Downtown with a term expiring December 31, 2028. Elizabeth Hollingsworth was re-appointed to continue serving, with her new term also expiring on December 31, 2028.

The council additionally granted the mayor authority to retain attorney Michael Busada as outside counsel for the city. "This is to hire a bonding attorney for our recreation complex enhancement project. We felt like Mike Busada would be good legal counsel from a bonding aspect, although we may very likely not bond. We still need to go through the approval process and get all the clearances and blessings legally that we can," said Mayor Cox.

ongoing investigation reveal that the 2-yearold and a 10-month-old child had been left unattended inside the home, strapped in car seats. Chief McIver stated that early indications suggest the child may have slipped into a slouched position within the car seat, possibly leading to restricted breathing. Investigators believe the car seat may not have been properly secured or used in accordance with safety guidelines. "It appears the child may have been improperly restrained, and we're trying to determine why they were in car seats inside the home without adult supervision," McIver said. "We're still piecing the puzzle together and waiting on the results of the autopsy to confirm the exact cause of death."

Authorities

not yet confirmed how long the children were left alone or how many adults reside in the home. "Right now, there's a lot of fingerpointing, but we do know there were no adults inside the house when this happened," McIver added.

Detectives are continuing to interview individuals connected to the case. No charges have been filed as of press time, but officials indicated that charges are likely, pending the results of the autopsy and further investigation.

"We may know by tomorrow or the next day whether charges will be handed down," McIver said. "It's a very difficult situation, and we want to be thorough in our investigation."

The identity of the child has not been released, and the case remains under active investigation.

The First 100 Days of Trump

"The Golden Age of America begins right now, during every single day of the Trump administration, I will very simply put America first ... And our top priority will be to create a nation that is proud, prosperous, and free." Trump Inaugural Address

I would be remiss not to observe the first 100 days of the second Trump Administration. They have been outstanding, one of the most consequential starts to a presidential term in our history. We may not fully recognize for years the fundamental restructuring that is occurring in our country, and the world.

While there is simply not space to list all the Trump 2.0 accomplishments, let me attempt to list the major ones.

He has secured the border-there are virtually no illegals coming in; he has pushed back forcefully against China, with both rhetoric and onerous tariffs, and he has completely unleashed American domestic energy production.

Regarding illegals, Trump has not only dramatically curbed the flow on both our southern and northern borders, he is also fighting back hard against the drug trade (including enormous amounts of fentanyl), human trafficking, and terrorists, as well. He declared a national emergency to stem the illegal invasion, directed military troops to the border, reinstated the highly effective Remain-in-Mexico policy, completely ended "catch-and-release," revved border wall construction back up, designated criminal drug cartels as "foreign terrorist organizations," and ended birthright citizenship.

However, although a stunning amount of progress, illegal immigration, China and unleashing American energy barely scratch the surface.

Trump has also broadly imposed a tariff regime that

nally, stop America from being taken advantage of by every other country that trades with also He engaged will,

Elon Musk and his Department of Government Efficiency (DOGE) to uncover more corruption and fraud than we could have ever imagined was occurring with American taxpayer dollars. All these actions taken together are driving down the inflation rate after four years of the highest inflation in 45 years, if not our nation's history. (See the price of eggs and the cost of a gallon of gasoline.)

Still further, President Trump has attacked the transgender delusion by blocking males from competing against women in sports. (See the state of Maine). He has simultaneously attacked so-called Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) initiatives across the federal government and in any American institution that receives federal funds, by threatening to block those federal funds.

In addition, he is dismantling the Department of Education which has done less to teach—and more to indoctrinate—students than can be imagined. Those education funds will now be—in a fashion that is both targeted and smart-blockgranted to the states who know far more about their specific education needs than the federal bureaucracy in D.C.

Trump has also directly attacked antisemitism on college campuses by, again, demanding that if college campuses don't reform their blatant bigotry and viewpoint discrimination, they won't receive federal funds. (See Harvard).

Trump is also vastly improving the morale of our military men and women, see the dramatic increase in military enlistments and individuals wanting to serve in border enforcement. He has returned our military to its one core and critical mission: lethality.

Globally, Trump has our enemies back on their heels. China has halted for now its imperialist designs and Iran is back at the negotiating table, well aware of Trump's demand that Iran will "never possess a nuclear weapon." I do believe Trump will end the Russia-Ukraine war. I also believe he will do everything he can to extract valuable commodities from Ukraine to offset the $350 billion (stupidly unsecured by the Biden Administration) America has given Ukraine.

Perhaps most importantly, Trump is bringing to a head out-of-control federal judges. Who tells the Judicial Branch—nothing more than a co-equal branch—that it has exceeded its authority? Constitutional law expert, Jonathan Turley, asserts that "federal judges have overextended themselves, they have intruded into areas of Article II, which is presidential authority ..." Trump has now forced the U.S. Supreme Court to address these rogue judges and, in particular, the nationwide injunctions blocking the president from exercising his core powers.

With this dizzying number and pace of accomplishments, the nation waits with great hope and promise for the next 100 days. All patriotic Americans should continue to support and pray for President Trump-for his success and physical safety from additional assassination attempts—as he leads our nation and the world away from the brink of economic and military disaster.

The Eagles opened the scoring with two runs in the top of the second on two walks, a single and a sacrifice bunt.

OCS went up 4-0 in the fifth, scoring two thanks to a walk, error and single.

The Apaches had their chances in the first four innings. They stranded two in the second, one in the third and one in the fourth.

Glenbrook finally broke through in the bottom of the fifth.

Hudson Glasscock reached on an error and advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt by Darron Hollingsworth. Seth Mangrum's two-out single scored Glasscock.

But the Eagles answered in the top of the sixth with a run on a two-out single by Luke Vidrine.

It looked like the Apaches might pull off a comeback in the bottom of the inning. Ryan Reagan doubled with one out. Sam Ricord and Preston Frye had backto-back singles, getting the Apaches within three. A groundout put runners at second and third with two outs. But Trichel ended the threat with a strikeout. The Eagles then added two more runs in the top of the seventh. William Raymond got the big hit, a twoout, two-RBI single. Sanders led off the bottom of the seventh with a double in his final at-bat. But the next three Apaches went down in order.

Sanders and teammate Jackson Waller will have one more chance to represent Glenbrook. They have been selected to the West team for the Louisiana Baseball Coaches Association/Louisiana High School Coaches Association All-Star Games to be held May 23-24 in Pineville.

Dodge scored and Florence moved to third. Dario Galvez's sacrifice bunt scored Florence with the tying run.

The Panthers then took the lead in the seventh. Leadoff batter Cooper Hayes was hit by a pitch. Moseley followed with a single. Ayden Moreno-Taule's sacrifice bunt moved the runners up a base. That set the stage for Spears' double.

Squirrel hunting in spring is not the same

GLYNN HARRIS

Since I was a little bitty kid, squirrel hunting was high on my list of fun things to do. Following along behind my dad, careful not to step on dry sticks or big brown leaves, I watched him as he sneaked up on a feeding squirrel.

Observing the way he did it, sneaking up behind a big tree to conceal his movements, he would get the squirrel in his sights, hit the trigger and to a kid, it was thrilling to watch the squirrel tumble to the ground in a shower of leaves. He would let me go pick up the squirrel, bring it to him as he slipped in in his vest.

As I grew older, dad got me a second-hand .22 rifle, gave instructions about how to handle the rifle safely and taught me to shoot it. Eventually, I was permitted to take my .22 with me as I tagged along with him, finally letting me try my hand at downing a squirrel. I'd miss; he'd finish the job with his shotgun until I was finally proficient at bagging a squirrel or two myself.

Once we got home, I helped him clean squirrels we had bagged where they were turned over to my mom who would convert a freshly cleaned squirrel to a fine meal. Older squirrels, too tough to fry, were slow cooked until tender. If it was young enough to fry, she would place the pieces of squirrel, all crispy and tasty on a platter alongside a bowl of rice and the gravy she made from the drippings. Adding a pile of her homemade biscuits, this was a meal that would rival anything Col. Sanders could produce with his yard birds.

Squirrel hunting, especially on opening day, became a tradition for me and I hunted them early in season for decades until walking the woods and sneaking up on squirrels became more than an aging body could handle.

A few years ago, the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, (LDWF) opened a spring season for squirrels that took place during the month of May. I decided to try it but it just wasn't the same as being in the woods on chilly mornings after squirrels. Something about being there in woods that had greened up with purple martins twittering overhead just didn't seem the same, so I never went

That time is on us once again as our spring season started on Saturday May 3 to run through May 25. Daily limit is three with possession limit of nine.

There are some who look forward to the spring squirrel season for a couple of reasons. First, it's a great time to take a youngster out without having to worry about coming in contact with other hunters after deer or turkeys. Secondly, the quality of squirrels taken in spring is better on the dinner table than those you get in fall. According a friend of mine from Arkansas who loves to squirrel hunt in spring, the meat is sweeter because the squirrels are feeding on tender buds and shoots while in fall and winter, the diet is hard mast, and this apparently makes the taste stronger. Season is open on private lands while some state wildlife management areas are closed. If you decide to give it a try on a wildlife management area, you'll need to check with LDWF to see which areas are open.

Now that spring turkey season is coming to a close but you still have a hankering to hunt, you might want to give spring squirrel hunting a try. As for me, I think I might sneak out to a private pond where the bluegills are bedding. That just seems more natural to

Mama—A Proverb 13: 24 Woman

We all have heard the Proverb 31 passage used to describe some women, I am sure. I have, and rightly so! For some women, yes! But my Mama was not in that league. I guess she was in the "minors" compared to a Proverbs 31 model. Proverbs 13:24 better defined her and my daddy! Now she qualified in some of these areas, but she was more of a "workhorse, a dependable servant, with an humble spirit". Being a woman of limited education (school drop-out in grade 7 to help her family make a living), Mama did not spend much time writing or reading. No, to birth seven rowdy Crider children, to help put vittles on the table three times a day, plus keep up with all the other duties of a mother and farmer's wife, made for a very durable and tough package. That's Mama!

With Mama and Daddy, "work" was the name of the game we played. And we played it from daylight until dark. (I'm using the word "played" very loosely!) To waste an hour of daylight "doing nothing" was akin to sin itself! They set the example. Rising early and working late into the night was just what every "decent farm family" did. And we were no exception! When I think of the amount of work they produced, especially my Mama, I am so conscious of their honesty about a "fair day's work". No cheating on Mr. Sunshine. No, sir-ree! Daddy and Mama were a team! And we all had to pull our weight, be it a cotton sack, hoe, or milking cows, feeding hogs or chickens. The persimmon and peach switches were good sources of motivation to produce "good work".

Some of Mama's chores included: birthing, nursing and caring for seven children from 1-3 years apart. A little arithmetic indicates that for 20+ years there was an infant or toddler to be nursed, diapered and attended! The early fire in the wood stove was needed to heat water for coffee, to cook biscuits (large pans of them), fry ham and eggs. More hot water was needed to wash and rinse dishes. (Three times a day)! Drinking water had to be pumped, from a hard-toprime pump outside. Cows were milked and fed, along with other animals. Corn was shucked and shelled for the chickens. Eggs were gathered. Rainwater from barrels standing in the drip of the tin-topped barn was used to fill the wash pot for the weekly washing.

Bill Crider

Building a fire to heat the wash-water, using home-made lye soap and bluing, were all part of the process of 'gitting the clothes clean'. The barnyard fence made for a good clothesline. Now the "second" rinse water was usually set in the sunshine for late evening baths. "Waste not"! And who was doing this, or seeing that it got done? Yep! Mama or Granny Crider! (The year I was born, Grandpa Crider died; Granny Crider came to live with us. My parents 'put her to work as soon as she checked in.')

Wood stacked by the kitchen stove was a daily affair. In the winter, the fireplace wood was also needed to "keep the fire alive". The old cast irons used for pressing clothes were on the cook stove or hearth for easy use. In the winter, the warm irons (or brick) were wrapped in towels and placed in the bed to warm the cold feet of kids getting home late from basketball games. Mama was on the

My sisters helped with many inside chores along the way while the boys pulled barnyard duty, giving Mama some relief. Hog-killing time meant overtime for sure! Many of the demanding tasks that go with this territory were "assigned" to Mama and Granny. They were always there pushing and shoving, doing their part. That garden seemed like a farm in itself! It seemed like acres to plant, hoe and pick. They were in charge here too. And work it was! Did you ever "stick" English peas, butter beans, green beans, or tomatoes? She was the engineer and consultant in charge, seeing the job was done right. My Cooking for a family of ten, including Granny, was a full time job in itself. Now her cooking was not the greatest, but remember I said she was not a Proverb 31 model! But to stick to this routine daily for 50 + years should earn Mama some kind of heavenly reward. I think it did! Granny was there to assist, work behind the scenes and help with clean-up duties.

Mama was always so proud to see us in school activities. All the Crider kids played basketball, so she had many opportunities to see "us shine". There were school plays and other events too. I don't remember Daddy attending many, but Mama was usually there if she could be. She was so proud when I graduated from college.(the first one to ever achieve this honor.) My parents had struggled to make it possible and I knew it! (And there was no student loan to repay or ask it to be forgiven). Mama was able to attend and sit near the front. Proud Mama! Proud me as well!

Time passed and the children moved away. One day a sister from Florida was visiting "home". Mama just "collapsed in her chair", suffering a massive heart attack. Two days later she was gone. At rest now! No more heavy labor and long days of toil for her. No more sacrifices to make. Just eternal rest!

As years pass, I think of Mama, and ask myself, "How did she do it all; Day after day?" That is just what Mamas do, I decided! They have their job and they "just do it". Even today, mothers have hectic schedules and responsibilities. Maybe a little different now than it was in Mama's day! But today, mothers work full time, shop for dinner, cook and serve it, clean house, help with homework, get the kids to bed and then, maybe have a few minutes for their husbands, attend to personal needs and then off to bed so tomorrow's schedule can be honored. Oh, did I mention washing, making beds, cleaning bathrooms, picking up after everyone, etc? Remember that ole saying about "a man's work is from sun to sun, but...?" It really is true. Bet every Mama knew it was! We will always need our Mamas. Her spirit will always be around! That loving touch, soft voice of encouragement and a swift hand of correction when Proverbs 13: 24 needs to be applied. For those whose mother is no longer around....may God bless you with sweet memories? For those whose mother is living...will you take time to do something special for them this Mother's Day? For all those women who 'mothered' children even though they are not biological mothers, may you be blessed too! Happy Mother's Day to every mother!

Working for the lord

Have you ever felt like your just getting by at work? Have you ever made the statement I'm just here to get paid?

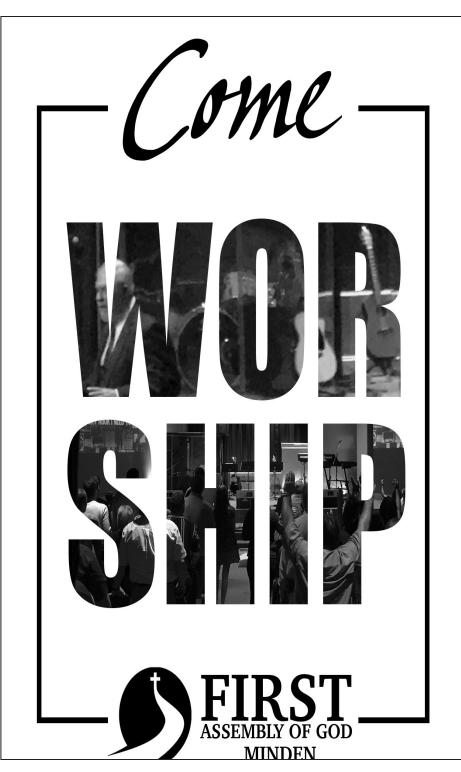

If you answered yes to either of those questions it may be time to invite God to work. Colossians 3:23-24 NIV says "Whatever you do, work at it with all your heart, as working for the Lord, not for human masters, since you know that you will receive an inheritance from the Bernard Harris

Lord as a reward. It is the Lord Christ you are serving." We must remember that there is no small job. Every job and every interaction allows us to glorify God. We have to treat every day as a new opportunity to minister to those around us. As I end this article I would like to leave everyone with three points. Firstly, if we have a healthy and prosperous job God provided that job. Secondly, we should try to find something positive every day on the job even when it seems there is nothing positive. And lastly, the position you have is the position God gave you, and

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

PLANTS TO USE DURING

JOE W. WHITE, PH.D. Extension Horticulturist, (ret)

LSU AgCenter May 2025

The kind of weather we've had so far this year has caused several gardeners to delay their planting of some of the plants suited to hot weather although now it appears that there may be somewhat of a return to more normal conditions. However, it's probable that many gardeners went ahead and planted some of their warm season vegetables and flowers anyway and likely some were successful. While that's well and good, do understand that warm season plants get a faster start and begin to thrive sooner when planted in a warm soil accompanied by warm nights and relatively hot days.

So now we're in the month of May and conditions for warm season plants peas and sweet corn should have finally arrived. But be planted at two-week inalready it may be a bit late to put out transplants of tomatoes and bell peppers as there is a risk they will not fruit well if temperatures soar before they are old enough to flower. Probably most gardeners will go ahead and plant these two favorites anyway and likely will be able to enjoy some fruits from each before they stop setting fruit.

Vegetables that well-adapted to hot temperatures should be what you are planting now if you have not already taken care of this process. Crops to consider include eggplants, hot peppers, okra, Southern peas, sweet potatoes, watermelons, squash, cantaloupes and sweet corn. Heat-tolerant cultivars of tomatoes will probably work, but the main crop tomatoes will usually be a disappointment. A few crops like Southern it's available in pink, purtervals into late July and early August to give a succession of harvests and prevent a glut of produce all at one time. Unfortunately, late corn is often the target of corn ear worms.

So, what flowers should you be planting now? There are several warm season annuals that would be good choices and among them are a few cultivars that are Louisiana Super Plants. Consideration should be given to angelonias, pentas, begonias, cleomes, alternantheras, lantanas, wishbone flowers, coleus and verbenas. All should do well. One flower that I didn't mention is the lisianthus. While not popular, it has especially high heat tolerance along with other desirable qualities. Plant breeders have added other colors to the native light blue flower. Now, ple, white, violet-to-blue and yellow. Other improvements include double blossoms on some cultivars that look like a rose and other cultivars that resemble a poppy at maturity. The foliage is usually a gray to gray-green in color. Stem height typically ranges from a foot and a half to two feet, but dwarf forms do exist. While it thrives in hot, dry conditions, it can handle a lot of rain with little or no damage.

Another feature that many will like is that it is long lasting as a cut flower.
