The Leadership Webster Class of 2024-25 was honored during a graduation luncheon held at the Community House in Minden on Tuesday, May 20, catered by Geaux Fresh.

Stephanie Barnette, president and CEO of the Greater Minden Chamber, welcomed attendees and expressed appreciation to families, employers, and supporters of the graduates. "While they may have stepped away from the office one day each month, they were stepping into a deeper understanding of local industries, service, mentorship, and community deeds with one goal in mind: becoming transformational leaders," Barnette said.

She described transformational leaders as those who "dream bigger, reach higher, and see the possibilities where others see limits." She encouraged the graduates to remain connected and continue working together to strengthen the community.

Graduates Katie Tip-

pen and Jason Medcalf delivered remarks reflecting on their experiences in the program. Tippen, a lifelong Minden resident, said, "It really made me appreciate where I come from." Medcalf added, "It's been a real privilege to be able to come here and be part of this program, and really become much more involved in this community."

Guest speaker Pastor Trey Waller of Living Word Minden shared insights on leadership and influence, drawing from personal experience as a baseball coach. "If you're influencing somebody, you're a leader," Waller said. He recounted a story of a young athlete whose actions influenced teammates, underscoring the responsibility that comes with leadership. "In that moment, that boy realized that he needed to do something with what he had." Waller also referenced leadership principles from the Craig Groeschel Leadership Podcast, stating, "Leaders do consistently what others do occasionally." See, LEADERS, Page 3

STAFF REPORT
Minden Press-Herald

A 51-year-old Minden man with multiple drug warrants was arrested on May 19 after a standoff with police in the 600 block of Martin Luther King Drive, according to the Minden Police Department.

Samuel Earl Elkins barricaded himself inside a trailer in the 600 block of Martin Luther King Dr. Monday morning as officers attempted to serve seven active warrants for drug distribution. Police surrounded the residence and made a public address call for Elkins to exit. A woman exited the home and confirmed to officers that Elkins was still inside.

After continued unsuccessful attempts to call Elkins out, officers obtained a search warrant for the residence, which included permission to search for Elkins, narcotics, and firearms. The department's Special Response Team (SRT) was activated and deployed gas into the home twice, but Elkins did not surrender.

Following a warning that a K9 unit would be used, officers entered the residence and located El-

A ribbon cutting was held Thursday morning for Little Believers Childcare Center, a new faith-based daycare facility located at 303 Sibley Road in Minden.

The center is owned by Lauryn Cain and will serve children ages 6 weeks through 4 years old. The facility is currently accepting applications, and organizers said many visitors at the event were filling out enrollment forms. The daycare aims to begin operations by mid-June.

"I just want kids to grow up knowing the Lord," said Lauryn Cain. "We're just so excited to bless this community and be a light." She added, "Our vision is to educate, care, and encourage kids in a Christ-like calling; we want to push them toward their calling to Jesus."

Cain, who will serve as the center's director, said the daycare will feature security cameras in each room, allowing parents to monitor their children via smartphone throughout the day. The center plans to implement the Frog Street curriculum beginning in August.

"This is a Christian facility," Cain said. "We will do Bible studies in the classroom, our music will be worship music, and our teachers will pray over these kids."

Cain is a Minden native and a graduate of Louisiana Tech University. Her background includes serving in children's ministry at local churches and teaching kindergarten at Evangel in Shreveport. She described the daycare as both a professional endeavor and a ministry.

Future line workers showcase skills at NLTCC rodeo

KELSEY MESHELL

Special to the Minden Press-Herald

Northwest Louisiana Technical Community College (NLTCC) held its third Power Line Worker Rodeo on May 15, 2025, at the Shreveport campus. The event celebrated the accomplishments of the graduating class by showcasing their technical skills and training in front of friends, family, and industry professionals.

During the rodeo, students demonstrated a bell change out, switch change out, pin change out, and the crowd-favorite Hurt Man Rescue race. Each exercise tested the students' speed, accuracy, and safety—qualities that are critical in the power line industry.

This year's graduating class includes Bryson Baker, Landon Coburn, Koby Copeland, Josh Flowers, Clayton Goodwin, Nathan Peoples, David Weaver, and Grayson Williams.

Led by instructor and AEP SWEPCO alumnus James Barlow, NLTCC's Power Line Worker Program offers students hands-on training and the opportunity to earn industry-recognized credentials such as a Class A Commercial Driver's License (CDL), CPR certification, and more. The program prepares students for success in a physically demanding and essential field.

The next Power Line Worker class begins in August 2025. To apply, students must be 18 years old, hold a valid driver's license, complete a DOT physical, have a high school diploma or equivalent, and be comfortable working at high elevations. A DOT drug screen is also required, with associated costs covered by the student. For more information, visit nlccc.edu or call 318-676-7811 to speak to a member of the student services team.

NLTCC remains the only provider of line worker training in Northwest Louisiana, offering a unique and rewarding pathway into the utilities industry.

A painting of an alligator by well-known local artist Jennifer Heard is being raffled to raise funds for Cultural Crossroads' "Art At The Farm" program.

The painting, described as "quintessentially Louisiana," was donated by Heard, who also serves as an instructor for the program. The raffle is part of a fundraising effort for The Farm of Cultural Crossroads, supported by a matching grant from the Shreveport Regional Arts Council, the Louisiana Office of Cultural Development, and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Raffle tickets are available online for a $10 donation per chance or $50 for six chances.

The winner will be drawn on Sunday, June 1.

4-H Club hosts meeting for prospective livestock program members

AMBER MCDOWN

Minden Press-Herald

The 4-H Club, sponsored by the LSU AgCenter, held an informational meeting at the Webster Parish Extension Office on May 20 to address questions from students and parents interested in joining the Webster Parish Livestock Program.

"We're always trying to find kids to show and get that new experience," said John Monzingo, the Webster Parish 4-H Livestock Agent.

Current participants in the program demonstrated how livestock competitions operate and shared their experiences. One brought a hen and another brought a rabbit to illustrate the handling and care involved. They explained that showmanship competitions emphasize the student's knowledge and ability to care for and present the animal, rather than the animal's pedigree.

Although high-quality animals can be costly, Monzingo said they are not required for participation.

"I'm more concerned with what the child is getting from the program," Monzingo said. "I want them to walk into a show ring and impress that judge with their knowledge, with their ability to take care of an animal. Bring what you've got; we'll learn."

Monzingo emphasized that many in the livestock community are willing to help new members. He provided parents with contacts of current 4-H livestock participants for further assistance.

Taylor Rayner, one of the youth at the meeting, summarized the spirit of the program: "The whole point of 4-H is not to win or to buckle. It is to have fun."

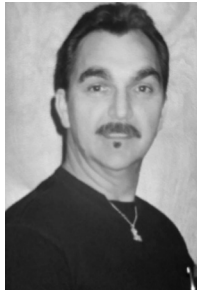

Monzingo echoed that sentiment, noting that children often form lifelong friendships through 4-H, as he has from his own time in the program.

Regular meetings for the Webster Parish Livestock Program will begin in August. For more information or to register, visit the Webster Parish 4-H Facebook page or contact John Monzingo at the extension office at (318) 371-1371.

The Biden Health Coverup is Unnerving and Dangerous

I didn't intend to address this topic until "reporter" Jake Tapper came out with the promotion of his new book. Not only is what he says transparently hypocritical but the truth he previously attempted to obscure sets a dangerous precedent for America.

Let me recap: any one of us who observed President Biden for much of the last 4 years could recognize he was suffering from some form of mental and physical deficit. We saw him falling up the stairs, walking off from other world leaders in a group photo—requiring one of those leaders to gently grab him by the arm and lead him back to the group, struggling to merely exit a stage from which he had just spoken although there were frequently 3 or 4 well marked exits from which to do so, and regularly and awkwardly losing his train of thought—slurring and stammering in such a way he was simply not able to be understood. We saw it clearly but were attacked and then subjected to world class gaslighting by Biden supporters and the Leftist national "media" when we pointed it out.

Then came the June 2024 debate between President Trump and President Biden and the wheels came off; the lies were completely unmasked when Biden was unable to stand at his podium and speak coherently. However, what is astounding is how the Left is incapable of seeing itself in its true light. How it is so often wrapped up in its own fabrication and virtue-signaling that it simply cannot comprehend what average Americans see clearly—that the emperor has no clothes.

ROYAL

point out that Mr. Biden wasn't up to the job, a praetorian media guard assembled to deny it. We could quote chapter and verse from many media sources, but one example worth citing is none other than Mr. Tapper" with "the CNN host casting doubt on those who cast doubt on Mr. Biden's mental fitness." (WSJ, May 18, 2025).

WSJ concluded its blistering critique of Tapper and major media by stating, "the coverup of Mr. Biden's mental decline will go down as one of the great scandals of modern politics. By refusing to admit what voters could so clearly see, Democrats denied their party an open primary. Democrats and the press are now appalled by Mr. Trump's second term. They would do better to think upon, and seek contrition for, their own role in making it possible." Ouch.

Tapper has responded as anyone would whose tail feathers were being burned, stating he had found "tremendous humility about my coverage." I laughed out loud. If he had any humility he would never have been so smug and dishonest in the first place.

Broadly though, it makes you wonder who was making presidential decisions.

The presidential autopen scandal is being looked into now. I also recount a story Speaker Mike Johnson has related publicly, and with me privately. It involves a conservation he had with President Biden when Speaker Johnson was at the White House on a different matter. Speaker Johnson pulled President Biden aside and stated something to the effect "Mr. President, may I ask why you imposed the ban on Liquefied Natural Gas (LNG) exports ... it's really hurting my state of Louisiana." To which Biden replied, "I didn't do that." Speaker Johnson respectfully but firmly pushed back, "Sir, it's happening in my own state. I assure you that you did impose the ban." To which Biden again stated, "I didn't do that." Speaker Johnson was truly taken aback. How could Biden not know he had imposed the ban and how many other things did Biden supposedly do that he had no idea he had done, or did not do himself at all?

This is all disturbing but what is truly worrisome is that an incapacitated Biden could have been called upon to make life and death decisions, perhaps in a crisis involving an Iranian nuclear strike on Israel, for example, or the need to send American troops to war. There are countless grave and dangerous situations with which a president must contend. To think Biden would have been faced with one or more of them in his fragile mental and physical health is alarming.

This coverup needs to be fully exposed and memorialized in hopes this kind of treachery never occurs again.

Thoughts on Memorial Day

On Monday, Americans celebrated Memorial Day, a day to remember and honor our veterans who made the ultimate sacrifice in defense of the many freedoms we all enjoy as citizens of this great nation. No matter what anyone says, we should never doubt that we are a great and mighty nation. Furthermore, the United States of America should never have to apologize for defending itself. There are no apologies needed on any soil, foreign or domestic, for our nation being the great and mighty nation that it is. Throughout its rich and storied history, America has always defended itself, as well as many other nations. We are a proud nation and a free nation. To those whom we honor and remember each Memorial Day, we owe an immeasurable and priceless debt that can never be repaid.

Memorial Day is a day that we mourn as a nation. Many people do not realize this. During my youth, I was among them. Back then, I thought of Memorial Day solely as a day of celebration instead of a day of remembrance and mourning. Yes, there is much to celebrate. However, remembrance, mourning, and recognition should stand first and foremost in our hearts on Memorial Day.

I pray that we never forget the real reason for Memorial Day. The United States of America is the greatest nation in the world, the greatest nation the world has ever known. There is absolutely no question about it, and this matter shall never be up for debate. Memorial Day is the day we remember those who put down their own lives to help make our nation great. It has been almost 249 years since our nation declared its independence. Since then, our country has depended on those willing to sacrifice their own lives to protect our immeasurable and priceless freedoms, our way of life. The words "divine" and "providence" are often used together in defining this great nation of ours. I use the word "ours" with heavy intent. This nation is ours. We should never permit any individual or group to take our nation away from us. This nation belongs to us all.

With that said, we all have rights. Whether or not we like what someone has to say or the cause for which they stand, they have the right to voice their opinion. We all have that freedom, not just a select few who are trying to drive the political spectrum and dialogue in a particular self-serving direction.

I love the word freedom. In this great nation of ours, we are free. Free to speak what we think and feel, free to worship when and where we choose, free to succeed with dedication and hard work, free to associate with whom we choose, free to work where we choose, and much more. These freedoms are a gift—a divine and precious gift from God and, once again, a gift afforded to us by those who made the ultimate sacrifice.

We should never lose sight of the fact that we have to work hard to succeed in striving for the many pleasures and the way of life that we choose to live. None of us should expect anything to simply be handed to us. Hard work, dedication, and sacrifice, combined with the freedoms mentioned above, help to make our nation great. This is what sets us apart from all other nations.

Traditionally, Memorial Day marks the beginning of summer. Soon, there will be grilling, swimming, vacation travel, and more. Personally, I always look forward to the Indy 500 and Coca-Cola 600 auto races on Memorial Day weekend. But again, there is so much more to Memorial Day than this. There were also several opportunities to attend a local remembrance ceremony on Memorial Day. I hope that you and your family had an opportunity to do so. And I pray that you and your family had a great Memorial Day in remembering those who paid the ultimate price so that we can live our lives in freedom as a part of this great and mighty nation.

Memorial Day: A Sober Reminder

Memorial Day is a sober reminder of the cost of freedom. Through the centuries, millions of Americans have fought and died for a republic built on the creed that "all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness".

Memorial Day is a collection of stories of courage and stories of loss. It is a day America celebrates great patriots as we grieve great loss of life and human potential. And it is a day we reflect on the values and freedoms that are the result of those sacrifices.

American's have a shared loyalty to the foundation principles in the Declaration of Independence and Constitution. The protection of freedom of speech and association and religious liberty are constant core principles in our country. The separation of powers was developed to prevent the establishment of a ruling class and authoritarian government. The founders of our country risked their lives to put those ideas into writing during a time when the power of nations was vested only in very few.

PHILLIP
ROZEMAN

In America, reasonable people may differ; open discourse is welcome; dissent is allowed; and equal opportunity is sought. In America, power resides in the free individual; the free exercise of religion is upheld; and our rights emanate from God. America has been described as the "indispensable nation" because it is now and has since its inception been a unique force of good in the world.

America is not perfect, but it is a nation that always seeks to improve. The abolition of slavery, civil rights, and women's suffrage were perceived as offensive to much of the population at the time these ideas transformed America. These causes and others that have changed America for the better require freedom of speech and open debate.

In the age of McCarthyism in the early 1950's, the courageous Senator Margaret Chase Smith stood up to Senator Joseph McCarthy's corrupt and manipulative "cancel culture" crusade. During Senate hearings, she said "some of the basic principles of America included the right to hold unpopular beliefs and independent thought. Exercising those rights should not cause one single American citizen his reputation or his right to a livelihood, nor should he be in danger of losing his reputation or livelihood merely because he happens to know someone who holds unpopular beliefs. Who among us does that? Otherwise, none of us could call our souls our own".

Those we honor on Memorial Day died for a free America. They fought for an America built on a foundation of respect for genuine listening, open discourse, and allowable dissent.

All these freedoms are still strong in America but will only stay that way with an active defense by us all. Memorial Day is a day for all of us to reflect on America's past in preserving those human rights. Looking forward, it is a day we reflect on our desire that these rights and freedoms continue for our children and grandchildren.

The antidote to the current hatred, bitterness, and resentment we see too much today is the wisdom of ages. Martin Luther King said in his "I Have a Dream" speech, "we cannot drink from the cup of bitterness and hatred" ... "we must conduct our struggle in the high plain of dignity and discipline."

The success of a democratic republic demands a moral base. It requires a large helping of God's important commandment of "loving your neighbor as yourself" and the Golden Rule of "doing unto others as you would have them do unto you". This is what so many sacrificed for me, and it is what we must preserve for our children and grandchildren.

Plenty of highlights in 2024-25 sports year

RUSSELL HEDGES
Minden Press-Herald

The 2024-25 high school sports year is in the books. Overall, it was a pretty good one for parish schools.

Let's take a look back starting with the fall.

The football season was mostly a success. Two teams, Minden and Lakeside, had major turn-arounds. The Crimson Tide went from 3-8 in 2023 to 8-3 in 2024. The Warriors went from 3-7 to 9-3 under new Head Coach John Ware.

All four teams made the playoffs but Lakeside was the only team that advanced past the first round. The Warriors defeated Bogalusa 37-12 before falling to eventual state champion Sterlington 49-18 in the second round.

Glenbrook went 6-4. Head Coach Reagan Smith stepped down after two seasons. Former Glenbrook Head Coach Greg Tibbitt was hired to replace him.

North Webster went 3-8 under first-year Head Coach Christopher Wilson.

The fall was also notable for the debut of volleyball in the parish with Doyline fielding the inaugural team.

The highlight of the winter sports season was Minden's run to the boys state tournament. The Tide went 21-3 in regular season and finished runner-up to Bossier in District 1-4A. They earned the No. 2 seed in the non-select Division I playoffs.

Minden received a bye in the first round and defeated Belle Chasse 69-32 in the second. The Tide then defeated Franklin Parish 52-44 in the quarterfinals, advancing to the semifinals and state tournament for the first time in 24 years.

The Tide got a rematch against Bossier, but the

DOUGLAS BLOW/SPECIAL TO THE PRESS-HERALD
Minden's run to the non-select Division II semifinals was a highlight of the 2024-25 sports year.

Bearkats came out on top 51-35.

The Doyline boys continued their string of successful seasons, finishing 22-9.

The Minden Lady Tiders came very close to winning the District 1-4A championship. Minden finished 6-1 in district play, falling to champion Northwood by a single point.

Minden went into the playoffs as the No. 24 seed and upset No. 9 Northwest 57-55 in the first round. The Lady Tiders fell to No. 8 Bastrop in the second round.

Minden is the only parish team that competes in soccer. The boys and girls teams both made the playoffs and lost to higher seeded teams in the first round.

In the spring, Lakeside won the District 3-2A softball championship and came very close to making it to the state tournament.

The Lady Warriors, who went 26-6, went into the playoffs as the No. 2 seed in non-select Division IV. They received a first-round bye then defeated Ringgold 17-2 in the second.

The Lady Warriors led Mangham 2-1 through six innings in the quarterfinals and were one strike away from victory in the top of the seventh.

But Mangham scored three runs and went on to win 4-2.

Glenbrook had another very good season. The Lady Apaches went 25-9 and reached the select Division IV quarterfinals, falling to eventual runner-up Opelousas Catholic 3-1.

In baseball, Glenbrook continued its domination of District 1-1A. The district was tougher with the addition of Cedar Creek, but the Apaches claimed the title with a three-game sweep of the Cougars.

Playing against a tough schedule, Glenbrook finished the regular season 15-9 and earned the No. 5 seed in the select Division IV series. But the Apaches couldn't duplicate their 2024 run to the title game, falling to eventual runner-up Ouachita Christian 7-2 in the second round.

Minden had an up-and-down season, but the Tide made the playoffs and finished with a winning record at 21-16.

Doyline came very close to knocking off No. 3 seed Family Community in the second round of the Class B playoffs, falling 6-5 in eight innings.

North Webster shined in outdoor track and field. The Knights finished fifth in the Class 3A boys meet.

Xaeliin Gladney won the 100 meters and finished second in the 200. He also helped the Knights finish runner-up in the 4X100 relay.

Doyline's Jonas Florence won the discus in the Class B state meet. Minden's Porter Neal was runner-up in the Class 4A boys 400.

That's a wrap on 2024-25. It all starts again in a little over three months.

NATCHITOCHES – Former Minden standout Je'Careon Lathan has transferred to Northwestern State.

Lathan, a 6-1, 182-pound senior defensive back, spent the 2024 season at Texas State, recording two tackles in six games. He previously played at Old Dominion and Trinity Valley Community College.

In two seasons at ODU, Lathan appeared in 12 games, recording five tackles. In his lone season at Trinity Valley, Lathan recorded 40 tackles (one for loss), three pass breakups and a blocked kick.

During his prep career at Minden, Lathan was a two-time, first-team all-district selection who scored 11 touchdowns and recorded three interceptions for the Crimson Tide.

"Je'Careon, like (Southern Miss transfer) Kolbe (Cage), brings some immediate relief in the secondary," NSU second-year Head Coach Blaine McCorkle said. "He and Kolbe are both older players who we expect to make immediate impacts on the back end."

Others joining the Northwestern roster for the upcoming 2025 season are linebackers Kabriel Anderson-Dale (North Texas), Ben Bienvenu (UL Lafayette), Barrett Newman (Liberty), defensive linemen Quintin Cook (Texas Southern), Elijah Sims (Abilene Christian), Cage and kicker/punter Cooper Evans (South Florida).

The old man's place revisited

GLYNN HARRIS

(Following is a chapter in my new book, "Fathers, Sons and Old Guns". The book, containing 50 of the columns I have written over the years is available from Amazon.com)

I met the old fellow once way back in the woods as he ground his pick-up to a rattling halt and stopped to chat when he noticed me walking along the woods road, shotgun over my shoulder on my way home from hunting squirrels.

He told me he lived in Texas but that he owned a little piece of land back there in the woods and that he had planned to dam up the little creek on his place and build a pond.

"I've got an old camping trailer I'm going to bring over here so I can have a quiet little place to come on weekends," the old man said.

The next year as I hunted these woods, I came across the little camper and an old dozer and it was evident that the old guy was true to his word. Dirt had been pushed up along the creek and the dam was indeed taking shape. Having found the site, I'd occasionally swing by the place at the end of my hunting trips to check on the old gentleman's progress.

Better hunting territory beckoned me elsewhere and I soon forgot the old man and his special little spot back in the woods. It was not until some five years later that I recognized his name in the obituary column. Even though I only saw him that one time, I was saddened by the news of his death, regretting that I hadn't gotten to know him better.

Awhile back, I returned to the old man's woods to hunt when I remembered the camper and the pond. Picking my way along the road, now choked with briars and brush, I stepped into a little clearing at the base of the dam. Relieved that the earthen levee had withstood recent floods, I threaded my way through the thicket that had grown up on the dam. My vision was obscured by the brush and I didn't see the little trailer until I was almost on it.

I stopped and remembered – it had been at least five years ago that the old man had parked the camper under the big beech across the dam. It was still there just as he had left it when he returned to Texas for the last time, not knowing he'd ever again sit under the beech in the cool of the evening to drink in the wild sounds of an uncluttered forest a mile from civilization.

Peering through the window of the trailer, the scene I saw told a story in itself. Although spider webs and dust had created a lacy veil over everything, I had the eerie feeling that the old man had just stepped out back for a moment and would be coming down the trail at any minute. I resisted the strange urge to knock and call out to him.

There was an open jar of mustard on the cabinet, spider webs clinging to a skillet on the stove, a plate on the dining table. To the rear was a bed with a crumpled quilt let in disarray when he crawled out for the last time one morning five years ago.

I walked away with the feeling of reverence; a sense of peace. The old man's hideaway had become as much a part of the wild woodlands as the silvery beech beneath which it sits in decay.

Sir, may you rest in peace...

A Time To Say “Good-bye”

In this world, it is true – “you only live once”; but also true is the statement: “you only die once.” So, when should we begin planning for this special event? With so many of our family and friends ‘passing on,’ we all are more aware of our need to put some final plans together than ever before. If we have learned one thing over past two years (Covid-19) it is this: tomorrow is not promised; life is fleeting; here today – gone tomorrow! The door to the end of life’s tunnel is nearer today for each of us than it has ever been. Each day many friends, family members and acquaintances ‘walk through the gate in life’s wall and enter eternity.’ Who knows, we may be next on the ‘grim reaper’s list?’

in the book – You Only Die Once, Margie Jenkins offers many thoughtful hints on how to prepare for this eternal destiny. Consider these thoughts as you begin to make your Preparation Notebook: Do it right; It is a wonderful gift to give your family; My cherished possessions - what shall I do with them, writing my biography for the grandchildren, and planning your ‘going away party.’

With Memorial Day right around the corner, many folks will gather at the cemeteries where loved ones are buried to remember them with special programs, lunch with other families there and lay plans to perpetuate care for the graves of their loved ones. My guess is, that few of them were buried with ‘all the strings tied to their liking’ before they died.

Now before you decide this is too grim for you to do, think back through these suggestions and ponder how much this would have helped you and your siblings if your parents had put left you some of these details in print. Think about what a blessing it would be to have a detailed biography of your grandparents and their days of childhood, passed on by your parents; some fun times they remembered and wanted your children to know about. Well, unless someone sits down and writes such notes, date them and compile it in some kind of order, all of this is lost to posterity....it is gone with the wind.

Remember when family members died suddenly and no one knew about insurance, whether or not burial plots or burial insurance had been made? So many details we have to face at the most emotionally draining time in life – and we don’t know what to do, where to turn for answers or cost involved!

Your attorney or financial planner can help you begin with a will, some directives, insurance, burial plans, estate planning, and other details. This really is a gift we give ourselves and our family. With chosen Bible passages, hymns or other music for the service, ministers and pall bearers in writing, one can relax some and know that some of the desires of the deceased will be honored. This gives the family great release from having to guess-work with such details.

Bill Crider

Now, with all in your hands, or the safety deposit box, or in the hands of your attorney, we can relax and face our last days with a peace of mind. We can release the anxiety of what a family deals with when ‘death knocks on the door’ unexpectedly or when it is inevitable due to long-term illnesses.

There have been some funerals I have helped with where such things, like thos mentioned above, have all been set in place, even down to the music and Scripture to be read and preached. One such service I remember had time allotments for each person involved. He knew that this would at least help in controlling the length of the service, due to winded speakers. Ha.

Whatever one does NOW in preparing for THEN will be seen as a GIFT to the family. Also, it will help the planner seek DIVINE LEADERSHIP in all areas of life as he/she approaches the final stage. Fear of dying can be lessened by proper planning. Of course, as believers we know that God’s perfect love casts out fear – of death and of eternity. Jesus covered all these cares by His victory over death. He brought reassurance to our faith by His resurrection. And He will make all things new – even our resurrected body when we meet Him in that great reunion in glory.

Let’s run the race before us, looking to Him for guidance through these trying times as we head to the finish line. He will guide us as we seek to live these last days, facing death with a smile on our faces. I dare you to attack this project and allow God to walk you through this special assignment, knowing it is a gift you are giving yourself and your family. May our Heavenly Father be glorified.

Hope During a Dark Night

“Let me hear Thy lovingkindness in the morning; For I trust in Thee; Teach me the way in which I should walk; For to Thee I lift up my soul.” Psalm 143:8 NASB

Max Hutto

In the darkest night of despair and difficulty, what brings us hope? David writes this Psalm while being persecuted by his enemy. During the gloomy night he longed for the presence of God. He yearned to experience God’s faithful, steadfast, unfailing, love and kindness in the morning. He trusted God to see him through the darkness and into the light of day. David desired to know and follow God’s ways. He sought direction and guidance from God as he sincerely called to Him in prayer.

Lord Jesus, in the midst of gloom and despair, I find hope in You. Fill me with Your love, mercy, and grace as I seek to follow Your way.

No Greater Love

We began this week in memoriam of those that sacrificed their lives for our freedoms. I would like to start this writing by saying thank you to anyone who has made that sacrifice. While I was driving to work on Monday I couldn’t help but compare the sacrifices of our troops to the sacrifice that Christ made for us. Just like a soldier Christ stepped in for our defense knowing that death, pain, and the grave were a strong possibility. This sacrifice is the greatest gesture of love that can be made. As a matter of fact Jesus exclaimed this in John 15:13 “There is no greater love than to lay down one’s life for one’s friends.” Jesus not only called us his friends but he did so without any reason to other than love. That is why in closing this week’s article I would like to encourage everyone to reflect on the sacrifices made for their lives and freedom.

The Water We Drink

COTTON VALLEY WATER SYSTEM

Public Water Supply ID: LA1119004

We are pleased to present to you the Annual Water Quality Report for the year 2024. This report is designed to inform you about the quality of your water and services we deliver to you every day (Este informe contiene información muy importante sobre su agua potable. Tradúzcalo o hable con alguien que lo entienda bien). Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water.

Our water source(s) are listed below:

Source Name	Source Water Type
WELL #02, NORTH WELL @ NORTH PLANT	Ground water
WELL #04, SOUTH WELL @ NORTH PLANT	Ground water

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

Microbial Contaminants – such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.

Inorganic Chemicals – such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial, or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.

Pesticides and Herbicides – which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff, and residential uses.

Organic Chemical Contaminants – including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic systems.

Radioactive Contaminants – which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

A Source Water Assessment Plan (SWAP) is now available from our office. This plan is an assessment of a delineated area around our listed sources through which contaminants, if present, could migrate and reach our source water. It also includes an inventory of potential sources of contamination within the delineated area, and a determination of the water supply's susceptibility to contamination by the identified potential sources. According to the Source Water Assessment Plan, our water system had a susceptibility rating of 'HIGH'. If you would like to review the Source Water Assessment Plan, please feel free to contact our office.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. Food and Drug Administration regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public health. We want our valued customers to be informed about their water utility. If you have any questions about this report, want to attend any scheduled meetings, or simply want to learn more about your drinking water, please contact Mayor BRUCE LEE at 318-832-4283.

There is no safe level of lead in drinking water. Exposure to lead in drinking water can cause serious health effects in all age groups, especially pregnant people, infants (both formula-fed and breastfed), and young children. Some of the health effects to infants and children include decreases in IQ and attention span. Lead exposure can also result in new or worsened learning and behavior problems. The children of persons who are exposed to lead before or during pregnancy may be at increased risk of these harmful health effects. Adults have increased risks of heart disease, high blood pressure, kidney or nervous system problems. Contact your health care provider for more information about your risks.

The Louisiana Department of Health and Hospitals - Office of Public Health routinely monitors for constituents in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. The tables that follow show the results of our monitoring during the period of January 1st to December 31st, 2024. Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk.

In the tables below, you will find many terms and abbreviations you might not be familiar with. To help you better understand these terms, we've provided the following definitions:

Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/L) – one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter (ug/L) – one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) – picocuries per liter is a measure of the radioactivity in water.

Treatment Technique (TT) – an enforceable procedure or level of technological performance which public water systems must follow to ensure control of a contaminant.

Action level (AL) – the concentration of a contaminant that, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system must follow.

Maximum contaminant level (MCL) – the "Maximum Allowed" MCL is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCL's are set as close to the MCLGS as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum contaminant level goal (MCLG) – the "Goal" is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to human health. MCLG's allow for a margin of safety.

Maximum residual disinfectant level (MRDL) – The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.

Maximum residual disinfectant level goal (MRDLG) – The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

Level 1 Assessment – A study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine (if possible) why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system.

Level 2 Assessment – A very detailed study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine (if possible) why an E. coli MCL violation has occurred and/or why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system on multiple occasions.

During the period covered by this report we had the below noted violations.
Compliance Period	Analyte	Type
6/30/2024	CONSUMER CONFIDENCE RULE	CCR REPORT

Our water system tested a minimum of 2 sample(s) per month in accordance with the Total Coliform Rule for microbiological contaminants. With the microbiological samples collected, the water system collects disinfectant residuals to ensure control of microbial growth.

In the tables below, we have shown the regulated contaminants that were detected. Chemical Sampling of your drinking water may not be required on an annual basis; therefore, information provided in this table refers back to the latest year of chemical sampling results.

The State of Louisiana regularly monitors source water per State and Federal Regulations. Treated water samples are monitored to further evaluate compliance.

Environmental Protection Agency Required Health Effects Language**
Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. COTTON VALLEY WATER SYSTEM is responsible for providing high quality drinking water and removing lead pipes, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components in your home. You share the responsibility for protecting yourself and your family from the lead in your home plumbing. You can take responsibility by identifying and removing lead materials within your home plumbing and taking steps to reduce your family's risk. Before drinking tap water, flush your pipes for several minutes by running your tap, taking a shower, doing laundry or a load of dishes. You can also use a filter certified by an American National Standards Institute accredited certifier to reduce lead in drinking water. If you are concerned about lead in your water and wish to have your water tested, contact COTTON VALLEY WATER SYSTEM and BRUCE LEE BUS Phone: 318-832-4283. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

There are no additional required health effects notices.
