Former Webster Parish deputy arrested on forgery, misconduct charges

STAFF REPORT
Minden Press-Herald

A former Webster Parish Sheriff's Office detective has been arrested following an internal investigation that revealed falsified documents and led to multiple felony charges.

WHITE

Spencer White, who was terminated from the Sheriff's Office on Monday, was taken into custody Wednesday at the WPSO headquarters. His arrest followed the issuance of a warrant by the 26th Judicial District Court.

"Former Deputy White's employment was terminated by the Webster Parish Sheriff's Office as a result of an internal affairs investigation in which potential misconduct was identified," said Sheriff Jason Parker in a statement Wednesday.

According to the Sheriff's Office, suspicious documents were found during a final inventory of White's office. These included a forged incident report stating that White's vehicle had been burglarized. See, CRIME, Page 3

Neighborhood residents turned out Saturday afternoon for Serving the Community, an event hosted by Food 4 the Soul and Project Reclaim at The Farm, where free food and fellowship brought people together from across the area.

From 2 to 5 PM, the atmosphere was upbeat as youth from Project Reclaim flagged down passing cars and welcomed visitors, handing out chili dogs, nachos, chips, cookies, drinks and more. The outreach event drew a steady crowd of neighbors who stopped by to eat, visit and enjoy the warm, welcoming environment.

Barbara Goston, founder of Food 4 the Soul, said the turnout reflected the heart of the mission.

"I would give them food and let them know that I care and that I'm here," Goston said. "I don't have much, but God has given me something, and I'm willing to share it."

Goston began serving food to the homeless in 2020. In 2022, she made her work official by forming the nonprofit organization Food 4 the Soul, which operates under the motto, "Changing lives one meal at a time."

Saturday's event appeared to be a success, with many participants expressing appreciation for both the food and the sense of community. Goston said the experience continues to be rewarding.

"I've met some amazing people," she said.

Organizers plan to host another community event in the near future. For more information, visit the Facebook page for Food 4 the Soul.

Joe LeBlanc Food Pantry faces funding shortfall for summer feeding program

AMBER MCDOWN
Minden Press-Herald

The Joe LeBlanc Food Pantry is asking for community support as it works to sustain its Summer Feeding program, which has already surpassed its projected budget with one month remaining.

The pantry served meals to nearly 100 families in a single day last week, and they need assistance if they are going to be able to continue serving people this summer.

According to a recent social media post from the pantry, the organization estimated it would need $18,000 to fund the entire summer effort. However, current expenses have already exceeded $20,000, with the program scheduled to continue through the end of July — three weeks beyond the conclusion of the Webster Parish Schools' summer feeding program, which ends July 7.

"So far we've spent $20,919.78," they stated. "In addition to all of the hours and the volunteers that drive the program, it takes real money, and a lot of it!"

Breakdown of expenses included:
$9,601.59 for the first month's supplies from Sam's Club
$9,962.72 for the second month
$516.50 for an emergency run
$764.90 for 9,000 paper bags
$74.07 for spoons

Organizers are encouraging donations to help cover remaining costs. Contributions are tax deductible and may be made in the following ways:

By check to JLFP, 814 Constable St., Minden, LA 71055

Kitchens shares reflections from 81st D-Day anniversary ceremony

AMBER MCDOWN
Minden Press-Herald

Paul Kitchens, a member of the Minden Lions Club, served as guest speaker at the club's noon meeting on June 19, where he shared reflections from his recent trip to Normandy, France, for the 81th anniversary commemoration of D-Day.

Kitchens traveled to the ceremony with two other veterans, representing the Minden Lions Club. The group was given reserved seats at the event. "We had made arrangements for us to be recognized and have a place on the platform for the ceremony," Kitchens said.

While in Normandy, the veterans met Lt. General Antonio Aguto Jr., a three-star general who served as the keynote speaker. The Minden Lions Club was also recognized during the presentation of floral tributes. "You were well represented in the floral arrangements," Kitchens said with a laugh, referring to the large arrangement provided by the club. He later presented club president Rick Buckner with the ribbon from the flowers as a keepsake.

Kitchens described the emotional impact of looking across the 9,387 graves of American soldiers buried in Normandy while Taps played. "There wasn't a dry eye in the house," he said.

He also spoke about the story of the Niland brothers, whose experiences inspired the movie Saving Private Ryan, and noted the broader human cost of the Normandy cam-that between June 6 and August 25, 1944, approximately two million troops landed in Normandy, and the U.S. lost about 206,000 men—roughly 10% of those who arrived.

The meeting closed with a playing of Taps, during which the veterans in attendance saluted the flag.

Jan Biles Randolph

Jan Biles Randolph, a beloved wife, mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother, passed away peacefully on June 17, 2025, at the age of 84.

Born and raised in Minden, Louisiana, Jan shared her early years with her twin brother, James Biles. She attended Louisiana Tech University, where she pursued a path in education. Her talents and dedication led to a teaching opportunity in Houma, Louisiana, a move that would change her life in the best way. It was there she met the love of her life, Amos Randolph, who she lovingly called Buckie.

While she began her career in the classroom, Jan ultimately found her true calling at home, raising their three children, and later her two grandchildren, while Amos worked offshore. She poured her heart into their children and grandchildren, always present, from early morning practices to late-night pageants, cheering them on every step of the way. Her 59-year marriage to Amos was a true partnership, marked by love, resilience, and an unwavering commitment to the family they built together.

Inheriting her creative heart from her father who was a brilliant photographer, Jan had a passion for gardening and home remodeling, always finding fulfillment in making her surroundings more beautiful. Over the past year, she found joy in planning her dream sunroom, a peaceful retreat she imagined down to the last detail. Though it was never built, the vision reflected her warmth, creativity, and enduring optimism. When it was time to relax, her happy place was on a dock fishing, in her later years Jan would get lost in mystery novels, watch home remodeling shows on HGTV where she’d get inspiration for her own home remodeling endeavors.

Jan is survived by her loving husband, Amos Randolph, and their three children: David Randolph, Dana Benoit and husband Johnny, and Steven Randolph and wife Kelly. She was the proud grandmother of Jocelyn Randolph and husband Rafael Aguinaga, Jacob Randolph, John Austin Benoit, Mackenzie Randolph, Katelyn Benoit, Braden Randolph, and Emerson Randolph, and a cherished great-grandmother to Helios Aguinaga-Randolph. She is also survived by her twin brother, James “Jim” Biles, and his wife, Hilary.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Mary “Rupert” Biles and James Caric Biles.

A celebration of her life will be held July 13th at 2:00 pm, Del Webb Sweetgrass (Lakehouse), 707 Del Webb Blvd., Richmond, TX 77469. In lieu of flowers, the family encourages you to honor Jan by planting something beautiful in your garden or taking time to make your house feel more like home, just as she always did.

Investigators reported that the incident number on the falsified report corresponded to an unrelated case, and the document contained fabricated statements along with the unauthorized use of other deputies’ names and credentials. White reportedly admitted to creating the false document.

“This is a difficult day for our department, but accountability is non-negotiable,” said Sheriff Parker. “When the public places their trust in us, we must uphold the law without compromise. No one is above it, not even one of our own.” Sheriff Parker added that the matter was referred to the Louisiana Attorney General’s Office, which is now handling the criminal investigation. He said the Sheriff’s Office has recused itself from any further involvement in the case.

“As your sheriff, I remain committed to complete transparency,” Parker said. “This agency belongs to the people of Webster Parish, and they deserve honesty, trust and accountability.”

White faces five felony charges: one count of malfeasance in office, three counts of forgery and one count of filing or maintaining public records. He was booked into Bayou Dorcheat Correctional Center with bond set at $185,000 by Judge Michael Craig.

Doyline man arrested for felony theft of utilities

STAFF REPORT
Minden Press-Herald

A Doyline man was arrested June 23 after allegedly bypassing multiple water meters and accruing over $3,200 in unauthorized water usage, according to the Webster Parish Sheriff’s Office.

Deputies responded at 7:37 PM to a report from a Jenkins Water representative regarding suspected utility theft by Scott Fuller, 61, of the 400 block of Coty Lane.

According to the representative, Fuller initially amassed a bill of $1,308.97 and was believed to have leaked approximately 314,950 gallons of water. Although the water meter was turned off, it had not been locked, and it was later found to have been turned back on. An additional 324,960 gallons of water were used, bringing Fuller’s total bill to $3,231.23.

The meter was then locked, but the locks were reportedly cut and the meter reactivated on two occasions. In response, Jenkins Water removed the meter entirely.

The utility provider later discovered an unauthorized meter had been installed and plumbed to Fuller’s property. That meter was also removed. This pattern reportedly repeated on three occasions, with each meter found operational and in the “off” position when discovered.

When questioned by a deputy, Fuller claimed he had no water service and demonstrated a non-working spigot. However, after being shown one of the three meter boxes on his property, a deputy turned the middle meter to the “on” position and returned to the residence. Fuller was asked to turn on a spigot, which then produced water. Fuller expressed surprise and denied knowledge of the meter being connected.

Fuller was arrested and charged with felony theft of utilities.

All subjects are considered innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

New York City Sends an Avowed Muslim Socialist to Its Mayoral Runoff

There are many significant events going on nationally and internationally right now that deserve our attention. However, I couldn't miss the opportunity to share a recent development in New York City.

Democrat primary voters in NYC just sent Zohran Mamdani, an avowed, self-described socialist, to the runoff election in that city's Democrat mayoral primary. I would say that I was surprised by this development but, unfortunately, I am not.

He is a doozy. He has called repeatedly for "globalizing the intifada." Although Mamdani has tried to explain this statement away as meaning nothing more than a desire for Palestinian "equality and human rights," it is actually a call for violence against Jews. In short, he sincerely believes Israel has no right to exist as a Jewish state.

An even cursory review of the history of Palestinian intifadas reveals the real meaning behind "globalizing the intifada." As described by the Wall Street Journal, "... beginning on Sept. 28, 2000, and continuing for almost 5 years, Palestinian suicide bombers and other militants associated with Hamas and Palestinian Islamic Jihad carried out 140 terrorist attacks within Israel. The second intifada took the lives of more than 1,000 Israeli civilians and seriously wounded thousands more."

Sickening. The Palestinian apologists in the national media are trying to protect and soften this image of Mamdani but there is no honest way to do so. WSJ closes with the piercing observation that "those blowing themselves up on Israeli buses and in food markets, gasoline stations, hotels, cafes, and restaurants weren't acting to advance 'human rights.' They did what they did to terrorize and murder Israeli Jews."

Globalizing intifada means bringing this violence everywhere, including New York City. What is hardest for me to understand is that one of America's most prominently Jewish cities is likely going to elect a communist Muslim who hates Israel and Jews. Remember on 9-11, 2001, NYC told the world "We will never forget." Sadly, today, 9-11's Ground Zero is about to elect a Muslim jihadist. Mamdani's supporters are not primarily Jews, blacks, or Hispanics. They are largely white elites with college degrees making over $100,000 a year.

That alone is enough to shock the conscience but that is not all.

Mamdani, among his socialist programs, wants to raise the minimum wage to $30-an-hour, provide free bus rides, create city-owned grocery stores and further tax already highly-taxed businesses and individuals. He will also coddle and free criminals, defund the police, and replace them with social workers.

This is where the national Democrat Party is, and who it is. Long gone are the traditional liberal versus conservative battles between the two major parties. The national Democrat Party has become the party backing the socialist worldview of AOC and Bernie Sanders—who was in Shreveport recently on his Fight the Oligarchy tour—which is hilarious given he is the embodiment of the rich white oligarch he professes to oppose.

This is the face of the national Democrat Party. If there are any moderate Democrats left—I make an exception for U.S. Sen. John Fetterman from Pennsylvania—they are invisible. What should concern the national Democrat Party is that this very same radical, Woke view that benefitted Mamdani in the NYC mayor election was soundly rejected by the majority of voters last November 5th with the resounding election of President Trump.

One interesting point is that former New York governor Andrew Cuomo—who was expected to perform far better than he did, if not run away with the race—was a victim of his own past governance, including his Covid disaster. In fact, the big cities in the country like Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and New York City are all run by Democrats, and they are all overwhelmed with crime, homelessness, and an exorbitant cost of living. As a result, the frustrated New York population voted for Mamdani.

I think what we've just seen from NYC voters is a strong repudiation of the Leftist policies that have put the City in the shape it is in. The problem—I think those same voters will soon discover—is that the flashy Mamdani is just like, and an even more egregious example of, what they are trying to reject.

As an American, Mamdani's rise in our nation's most prominent city disturbs me. What should disturb national Democrats is that they are all going to have to answer for his insane, left-wing views.

INSPIRATION

If I'm not for myself, who will be for me?

Hillel, a noted philosopher, asked the poignant question, "If I'm not for myself, who will be for me, if not now, when; but if I'm only for myself, what am I?"

Because we, to a degree, invent our own destiny, create it, make it happen, manufacture it within our own brain, then believe it into existence by diligent work, creative energy that drives us to our goals, we must devise a plan of action to reach our desired destinations.

Someone has said that in order to achieve any goal, there are only two things we must do. First we must decide exactly what it is that we want and secondly, and just as important, we must determine what price we are willing to pay to make that goal a reality.

SARAH HUDSON PIERCE

way for the man who knows where he is going."

Being rejected in any endeavor isn't the end, doesn't define us as a failure. Just as Fran Tarkington, the famed football player, held the record for touchdowns, he also held the record for more sacks than anyone else.

Another interesting fact is that President Ronald Reagan, was turned down when he applied for a job at Montgomery Ward. Being upset he mentioned not getting hired to a total stranger, on an elevator, who suggested that he go down to the local radio station who was hiring.

Immediately he was hired. The rest is history.

It's now what happens to us, or how many defeats we encounter, but how many time we get up, dust ourselves off, keep trying, each time rising a little further up from which we came.

Perhaps we know deep inside that the time has come that we must reach inside, develop our gifts or die in despair.

Life has never been easy but visualizing our dreams as a reality, before the first step is taken, is what makes the difference!

Celebrating Freedom: A Personal Reflection on America's 249th Birthday

This Friday is the Fourth of July—one of my very favorite and most memorable holidays of the year. July 4, 2025, officially marks America's 249th birthday. It was on July 4, 1776, that Congress adopted the Declaration of Independence (though history shows that the document was actually voted on and signed by the Second Continental Congress on July 2, 1776).

As I said above, the Fourth of July has always been one of my favorite holidays because of what it stands for. When I was a teenager in junior high school, I vividly remember the celebration of America's Bicentennial on July 4, 1976. I remember the months and months of historical celebration and patriotic promotion leading up to that incredible moment.

I also clearly remember what our family did on that very day. We attended a celebration on the Shreveport riverfront that evening—a celebration very similar to the riverfront events that have taken place in recent years. It's hard to believe that was 49 years ago. Time flies.

RANDY BROWN

A few years later, I also remember my dad bringing home two Susan B. Anthony silver dollars, which were first minted in 1979 by the U.S. Mint. In fact, I still have them somewhere. The coins were only minted in 1979, 1980, 1981, and again in 1999. One day soon, I need to find them—they may be worth something.

If you have a flag to fly this Fourth of July, I hope you'll display it proudly. If you're able to attend church around the holiday, I hope your church celebrates patriotism both in message and in song. Most importantly, I hope we give thanks to God for the many freedoms we enjoy in this country. America is truly a blessed nation. We should offer constant thanks and praise to God for the greatness He has bestowed upon us. We are mighty, and we are free.

Of course, not all nations can say the same. And sometimes, I do worry about the erosion of our freedoms here at home. In many ways, it feels like some of our rights and privileges are slipping away right before our eyes. As U.S. citizens, we are guaranteed certain freedoms by our Constitution—especially those outlined in the Bill of Rights.

To call our Constitution a "work in progress" or to imply that our rights can be taken away depending on a particular political leader's philosophy is a dangerous departure from the vision of our Founding Fathers. That kind of thinking echoes the tyranny our founders sought to escape when they formed this great nation.

We are the United States of America. We are proud. We are mighty. And we are free.

I hope you and your families have a very happy, safe, and fun Fourth of July. Most importantly, let's come together to celebrate what makes our country great.

Louisiana Tech lost two legends last week

RUSSELL HEDGES
Minden Press-Herald

Dave Nitz and Dr. Billy Jack Talton, two men with different but profound impacts on Louisiana Tech, passed away last week.

Nitz, 82, was the legendary Voice the Bulldogs for 50 years. He was inducted into the Louisiana Sports Hall of Fame in 2019.

Talton, 85, played football at Minden High and Louisiana Tech. He went on to become a powerlifting pioneer at Tech and led the school's team to 22 national championships before his retirement in 2001.

He was a 10-time College Powerlifting Coach of the Year and is recognized as the founder of Louisiana High School Powerlifting.

Talton was inducted into the Ark-La-Tex Sports

Museum Hall of Fame and was an inaugural inductee into the USA Powerlifting Louisiana Hall of Fame. In 2023, he was inducted into the USA Powerlifting Men's Hall of Fame as a contributor after serving in many capacities including as an official for the Paralympic Games and international official for the Special Olympics.

I was lucky to cross paths with both these great men.

When I covered sports at the Shreveport Times in the late 1980s until about 2000, my main focus was high school sports.

But every now and then I would cover a Shreveport Captains game at Fair Grounds Field. Sometimes on off days I would go to games and sit in the press box with The Times' beat writer.

In addition to his duties at Louisiana Tech, Dave was the Captain' radio play-by-play announcer.

Anytime I saw him he was always ready with a "hello" or "how you doing?" I would often stop by the radio booth before the game or between innings and say a quick hello to him.

At one point, Dave hosted a TV show that I believe was broadcast on Shreveport cable. He asked me to be a guest.

I was hesitant. I have never been comfortable in front of any kind of camera. I had never been on TV.

But I said yes. Dave knew I was nervous but he made it easy for me and I was able to relax and ended up enjoying it.

I first met Coach Talton, as I always called him, in 1967 when I was 8 years old. He joined the coaching staff at Captain Shreve, led by my dad, the late Lee Hedges.

The 1967 season was Shreve's second. The Gators had won only one game the previous year in their inaugural season. But with the help of Coach Talton Shreve won the district championship.

He was an assistant for two more years as Shreve began to become one of the state's top programs. Two of his former players, Bo Harris and Gordon Boogaerts, served as pallbearers at his funeral.

I can still remember being around him as he became one of my dad's close friends.

His obituary mentions his "robust laugh," and "signature intensity."

Even though I was a little kid, I definitely remember those things about him and looked up to him.

After he left Shreve, he had coaching stints at Northwestern State and Cedar Creek before becoming a faculty member at Tech in Health and Physical Education.

He started the powerlifting team in 1974 and Tech competed in its first national championship event in 1976.

I saw Coach Talton only occasionally after he left Shreve, usually at a Louisiana Tech event. The last time I saw him was about two years ago at my dad's funeral.

Last weekend, the Louisiana Sports Hall of Fame held its annual induction ceremony.

As mentioned above,

Dave Nitz is deservedly a member. Perhaps one day Coach Talton will become one.

Dave and Coach Talton will of course be missed, but they left marks few of us will be able to.

Coach Talton influenced hundreds as a teacher and coach.

Dave brought the excitement of Louisiana Tech sports into the homes and vehicles of those who were unable to be at games in person.

And no doubt some fans brought their radios to listen to him at games or turned their TVs down and listened to him as they watched games.

His signature phrase of "you gotta love it" when the Bulldogs performed well on the field, court or diamond is etched in Tech history.

Family propelled former Tech star Johnson to Hall of Fame career

NATCHITOCHES – Former Louisiana Tech women's basketball star Vickie Johnson was among 12 members of the Class of 2025 inducted into the Louisiana Sports Hall of Fame Saturday night.

Family forged Johnson's rise from small-town sensation in Coushatta to Tech standout and WNBA trailblazer.

Initially, Johnson's brother did not want her playing basketball with him and other family members. Johnson took the initiative and found an opening to exploit.

"One Saturday they were playing two-on-two but they only had three players," she said. "I was lurking in the wings. I secretly practiced for five or six months, because I knew the opportunity would present itself again. When it did, he allowed me to play. From that moment on, he put me under his wing and helped me get there."

That snub-turned-protector and nurturer began the push that led Johnson to become the first WNBA player to score 4,000 points, grab 1,000 rebounds and hand out 1,000 assists in a career. What it also may have birthed was a pretty effective forearm.

"My first memory of Vickie was her forearm in my hip," said current Las Vegas Aces coach Becky Hammon, a six-time WNBA All-Star. "It was a reality check. I thought, 'Oh, man, she's really strong.' I did get a lot of my points off her assists. I like to say I helped her in the assists category and she helped me in the points category. She's one of a kind. They don't make them like V.J. anymore."

Johnson fought back tears when speaking about her late mother, who passed away in 2016. It was her mother who "allowed me to dream and dream big."

CHRIS REICH/NSU PHOTOGRAPHIC SERVICES
Former Louisiana Tech women's basketball star Vickie Johnson was inducted into the Louisiana Sports Hall of Fame Saturday night.

It was her mother who also may have allowed Louisiana Tech to keep its nascent star.

"There was a moment at Louisiana Tech when coach (Leon) Barmore got on me good," Johnson said. "I called my mom and said, 'This guy is crazy. I need to leave.' She said, 'I'm going to ask you three questions. You wanted to go to Louisiana Tech?' I said, 'Yes, ma'am.' 'You signed a scholarship?' Yes, ma'am. 'You at Louisiana Tech?' Yes, ma'am. 'Then stay your (butt) there.'"

Former LSU head football coach Nick Saban and offensive lineman Andrew Whitworth were among the other inductees.

"A lot of people look at this state through the athletic programs at LSU," said seven-time national champion college football coach Saban, whose first title came in 2003 at the helm of the Tiger program. "When we were there, we raised the bar and the standard."

The standard raising and bearing celebrated Saturday night did not begin and end with Saban nor did it end with on-field or competitive accomplishments.

Joining Saban in the induction class was one of his first recruits – West Monroe offensive tackle Andrew Whitworth. Whitworth followed his national championship at LSU with a standout NFL career that culminated in a Super Bowl victory that came after he took home the Walter Payton Man of the Year Award.

Saban lauded Whitworth as epitomizing what the coach wanted his players to become in their post-collegiate career.

Whitworth attributed that to his home state's culture and what it instilled in him during his formative years in northeast Louisiana.

"Culture is shared belief and values," he said. "When you have that, it makes it special. I always want to make things better than I found them, and I have been given the blessings and ability to do that. Anything I'm a part of, it will be better because I'm there. The people I do it with are what matters most. That's our way of life."

"When I think of being at West Monroe, I think about my parents and my teammates' parents. When we were really successful, they were feeding the whole team and the coaches are pouring into us. At LSU, it was the same thing. You're just further away from home, but it was a new home. Moms were having us over to eat."

"Dads were taking us to lunch, asking us what we wanted to do after LSU. It was a support system. Once you get to the league, you have to be the support system. Could I share the values I learned from Louisiana? Making others feel valued. Can you spread that love? Making everyone feel special and feel a part of something sets you up to be successful. That's our way of life in Louisiana."

Being that support system for others came naturally to Whitworth and was on display long before his 16-year NFL career that saw him help redefine the legacy of left tackles at football highest level.

"He always poured into other guys," West Monroe strength and conditioning coach Kirk Frantom said. "Whit was always in tune with his body and always wanted to perform at his highest level, but it wasn't just the competitiveness. It was the servant's heart he has."

Whitworth's legacy extended to his final NFL stop, winning a Super Bowl with the Los Angeles Rams, a franchise that allowed him to lead almost in lock step with head coach Sean McVay. Whitworth's relationship with McVay has been well documented, and the two remain close after Whitworth's retirement from the game.

"Whit always said this is a blessing, not a burden, and that's the approach he took every day," McVay said. "He's the only person to wear the Walter Payton Man of the Year patch and go out and win a Super Bowl to go out. He is the epitome of a special one and of a Hall of Famer."

The other six inductees in the competitive class were college baseball coach Joe Scheuermann, high school basketball coach Danny Broussard, pro basketball All-Star Danny Granger, LSU gymnastics great April Burkhalter, high school football coach Dale Weiner and NCAA boxing champion and state championship George "Bobby" Soileau.

SEC Associate Commissioner Herb Vincent, a former LSU sports information director, was this year's winner of the Dave Dixon Sports Leadership Award.

Longtime sportswriter Glen Guilbeau and New Orleans broadcaster Ed Daniels, who passed away this year, were the recipients of the Louisiana Sports Writers Association Distinguished Service Award.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Seven Bulldogs named to Steele Preseason All-CUSA Teams

STEPHEN FEATHERSTON
Louisiana Tech Director of Strategic Communications

Seven Louisiana Tech players received Phil Steele Preseason All-Conference USA honors, led by tight end Eli Finley and linebacker Kolbe Fields on the first team, the outlet announced last week.

Following Finley and Fields on the first team was Hayden Christman (offensive tackle) who earned second-team recognition. Omiri Wiggins (running back), Landon Nelson(center) and Sifa Leota (linebacker) were named to the third team, while Cedric Woods(corner) rounded out the seven Bulldog honorees with fourth-team honors.

Finley returns for his third season with the Bulldogs after starting in all 13 games at tight end last season. The Heath, Texas, native caught 25 passes for 314 yards and two scores and earned All-CUSA Honorable Mention honors. He ranked third on the team in receptions, receiving yards, and touchdowns, and is the leading returning receiver in all three categories heading into 2025.

Fields is set for his third season in Ruston and his second in an active role after earning All-CUSA Second Team honors last season. The New Orleans native played and started in 11 games last season while registering 71 tackles (38 solo, 33 assists), nine tackles for loss, 1.5 sacks, one interception, two forced fumbles and two pass breakups.

Christman was named to the second team after playing in all 13 games with 11 starts at right tackle as a redshirt freshman in 2024. The Tioga native took over the starting right tackle role against Tulsa and never looked back. He was a pivotal member of the offensive line, helping the Bulldogs average 223.5 yards per game through the air, the CUSA's fourth best passing offense.

Wiggins was named to the third team after a successful 2024 campaign that saw him take over the starting running back role. The junior college transfer played in all 13 games while making nine starts in the backfield. Wiggins rushed for 527 yards and four scores on 111 carries.

Nelson, who is expected to be a key piece of the offensive line at center, joins Wiggins on the offensive side of the ball with third-team recognition. The former Iowa Western CC product has appeared in 20 games over the past three seasons, including 12 games and 10 starts at center in 2024.

Leota joins Fields at linebacker with third team preseason honors. The Eulless, Texas, native saw action in all 13 games with two starts in 2024 after transferring from North Texas. He recorded 43 stops, 5.5 tackles for loss, 3.5 sacks, one forced fumble, and one fumble recovery.

Woods, who announced he was coming back for his sixth season after the Independence Bowl, earned Phil Steele Preseason Fourth Team All-Conference USA for the second time in his career. The Monroe native has played in 47 career games with 45 starts dating back to the 2020 season where he started in all 10 games as a true freshman. Woods started in 12 games last season and collected 30 tackles and five pass breakups.

Centuries of history wrapped around Natchez Trace

GLYNN HARRIS

I’ve seen the sign dozens of times traveling east on I-20. The brown Natchez Trace sign just east of Jackson point to where to get on this highway. I’d heard little about driving the Trace to spark my interest, especially the part that mentions the 50 mile per hour speed limit. Compared to the speed we can zip along the interstate, 50 is pokey slow and I like to get where I’m going quicker than 50 will allow.

I made my first trip on the Trace several years ago when a friend and I connected with the highway somewhere around Tupelo and rode it into Alabama, exiting near Sheffield. We weren’t in that big a hurry so the 50 mile per hour drive was rather nice; we even got to watch a flock of wild turkeys feeding along the roadside.

Later, Kay and I were headed southwest from Jackson for a two-night stay in Natchez. The most direct route, according to the map, was to get on the Natchez Trace near Clinton and drive the 80 miles or so to Natchez. It was a drive I’m sorry I avoided before and one I’ll for sure make again in the future.

The only negative was traveling in the middle of a July day when the temperatures approached the century mark. At 50 miles per hour, I’d like to have had the windows rolled down to get a better feel for the peaceful countryside where we drove. Even so, much of the highway was shaded, resulting in temperatures several degrees cooler than that out on the sun-drenched interstate. Another plus to our trip was the absence of traffic; we probably saw fewer than two dozen vehicles over the 80 mile span.

GLYNN HARRIS

A leisurely 50 mph drive along the Natchez Trace could give drivers chances to spot a wild turkey or two alongside the road.

Upon returning home a few days later, my interest in this neat little back country highway sent me to cyberspace for some research on the Natchez Trace. What I found was fascinating.

Did you know that the Natchez Trace is some 444 miles in length, stretching from Natchez, Mississippi to Nashville, Tennessee?

Do you know how the Trace was formed? I didn’t but I learned that in the early 1800s, boatmen called “Kaintucks” from the Ohio Valley floated merchandise, agricultural products, coal and livestock down the rivers for sale in Natchez and New Orleans. Once the trip was completed, the flatboats were dismantled and the lumber sold.

Next came the arduous task of getting home via the ancient trail used by animals and humans that connected Natchez to just south of what is Nashville. If the sale of lumber was enough to purchase a horse, the Kaintucks rode back along the trail, the trip taking 20-25 days.

If there was no horse, they walked, covering the distance in 30-35 days. A trip around Wal-Mart gets me winded so it’s hard to imagine walking a trail for nearly 500 miles through sometimes hostile Indian territory where robbers often lurked with no Golden Arches or Holiday Inn anywhere to be seen.

The trail became so well used that research indicates as many as 10,000 travelers used the old Trace in 1810 alone and by then, the Trace was the most heavily traveled trail in the Old Southwest. By 1820, more than 20 inns, or “stands” were in operation along the Trace, offering food and shelter.

The modern Natchez Trace Parkway was begun in the 1930s, paralleling the old Trace. Today, the parkway is complete, giving travelers an unhurried route from Natchez to Nashville where you won’t see many other vehicles but you just might spot a flock or two of wild turkeys or herd of deer.

IN GOD WE TRUST.....

“In God we trust, His strength is sure. His mighty hand will ever guide us; this is our motto; In God we trust.” As our nation celebrates another ‘birthday,’ and as the red, white and blue unfolds from village to cities across the country, let this motto sound out strong and clear—In God We Trust, without a trace of fear.

On our coins, from the beginning, our forefathers stamped this motto, wanting no misunderstanding of establishing the foundation of our government and laws upon this rock—“in God we trust”. So we pledge our allegiance...”one nation under God...with liberty and justice for all”, thanking God for freedoms we enjoy. And this all comes about because of Almighty God in whom we trust. Read the words to the patriotic song by the same title: “This is our country, home of the free, a land of beauty from sea to shining sea;

With lofty mountains and spacious plains, beyond all this one truth remains, In God we trust.... We are Americans, we’re proud to be; We stand for justice, we fight for liberty; We pledge allegiance, uphold her laws, and we are blessed in this because... In God we trust, He is our fortress; In God we trust, His strength is sure. His mighty hand will ever guide us; this is our motto; In God we trust. For blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord, and blessed are those Guided by His Word. His mighty hand will ever guide us; This is our motto; our true confession, our declaration: In God we trust.” (In God We Trust; Stan Pethel)

There are many Biblical references to obeying the laws and giving allegiance to those in authority. Still we must keep God’s Commandments at life’s forefront, and our eyes fixed on Jesus our Savior, Then, we can know true freedom as Paul taught, “If He has set you free, you are free indeed.”(Gal 5:1)

We continue to be distressed about the Russian invasion of the Ukraine and the Middle East war and conflict, our country’s borders and such! Our young men and women are still in harms’ way around the world. We know the cost of freedom and our privileges that come at a heavy cost. Review facts from past wars and see how honorably we fought to protect our citizens and allies, to preserve freedoms & liberties at stake, and to prevent terror & evil forces spreading to other parts of the world. May our leaders always be willing to listen to our Heavenly Father when making decisions that affect so many around the world. What a disaster when God’s wisdom is not sought and applied. Praying for our president and staff is so important at this time. We must never doubt the mighty role prayer plays in God’s demonstration of His works and power. He is waiting for His children to honor Him, seek His face and call upon His name to turn our nation around! Then truly we can celebrate our freedoms – as a nation and as a holy people.

Yes, we will celebrate Independence Day again and hoist our flag high, displaying the red, white and blue colors. We will shoot fireworks and enjoy picnics with family and friends. But we must never forget our young men and women who are defending our freedoms as we celebrate. The eyes of God will be on our nation if we, but humble ourselves, pray and seek His direction for our beloved country.

“If My people will pray and will bow down their hearts—And will humbly seek all that is true; If My people will turn from their ungodly ways—And acknowledge Me in all they do; Then I will hear from heaven and forgive their ways. I will bring healing to their land. If My people will pray.” (If My People Will Pray, Jimbo Stevens)

Let’s salute Old Glory; let’s commend our soldiers for their sacrifice and commitment, and let’s pray for our leaders who make tough decisions. Let’s honor our heroes, but still - may our life’s motto ever be “In God We Trust”.

This is a great nation, not because of the weapons of war, military might or our great wealth. We can only be great in that we keep our trust in God Almighty.

Wicked – Chaff

“The wicked are not so, But they are like chaff which the wind drives away.” Psalm 1:4 NASB

The wicked are the ungodly ones. They are not blessed by God, nor do they delight in His Word. They are not like the tree firmly planted by streams of water. The wicked are like chaff, the useless part of grain. At harvest time, the chaff is separated from the grain by throwing it in the air. The heavier grain falls to the ground. The lighter chaff is driven away by the wind. While the wicked may flourish for a season, may even enjoy their sinful ways, and may seem to dominate over the righteous, the wicked will soon face the judgment at harvest time.

Lord Jesus, help me to warn the wicked of their fate. Let me share with them the need for repentance and faith in You.

Matters of Perspective

I would like everyone to take a moment to reflect on their childhood. Do you remember the hidden image puzzles that they would let you do in school or at the doctor’s office? Do you remember how to solve those puzzles? You have to press the image right against your face and slowly move it out. This allowed you to see things otherwise not visible at first glance. These puzzles were fun and extremely educational because they made you change your perception. The way we choose to look at things is very important. We sometimes look at our lives as chaotic and unbalanced.

Bernard Harris

While other times we see our lives as happy and fulfilled. What we don’t realize all too often is that God is painting a portrait with our lives and he sees the end result. We need to do what we did as children. We need to step back and refocus on God and his plans. Jeremiah 29:11 NLT “For I know the plans I have for you,” says the Lord. “They are plans for good and not for disaster, to give you a future and a hope.”

The Water We Drink

STATE OF LA MILITARY DEPT - CAMP MINDEN
Public Water Supply ID: LA1119018
We are pleased to present to you the Annual Water Quality Report for the year 2024. This report is designed to inform you about the quality of your water and services we deliver to you every day (Este informe contiene información muy importante sobre su agua potable. Tradúzcalo o hable con alguien que lo entienda bien). Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water.
Our water source(s) are listed below:
Source Name
WELL #04
WELL #18
WELL #22
Source Water Type
Ground water
Ground water
Ground water
The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include:
Microbial Contaminants - such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.
Inorganic Contaminants - such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial, or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.
Pesticides and Herbicides - which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff, and residential uses.
Organic Chemical Contaminants - including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic systems.
Radioactive Contaminants - which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.
A Source Water Assessment Plan (SWAP) is now available from our office. This plan is an assessment of a delineated area around our listed sources through which contaminants, if present, could migrate and reach our source water. It also includes an inventory of potential sources of contamination within the delineated area, and a determination of the water supply's susceptibility to contamination by the identified potential sources. According to the Source Water Assessment Plan, our water system had a susceptibility rating of 'MEDIUM'. If you would like to review the Source Water Assessment Plan, please feel free to contact our office.
In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. Food and Drug Administration regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public health. We want our valued customers to be informed about their water utility. If you have any questions about this report, want to attend any scheduled meetings, or simply want to learn more about your drinking water, please contact HARRY WILSON at 318-382-4183.
There is no safe level of lead in drinking water. Exposure to lead in drinking water can cause serious health effects in all age groups, especially pregnant people, infants (both formula-fed and breastfed), and young children. Some of the health effects to infants and children include decreases in IQ and attention span. Lead exposure can also result in new or worsened learning and behavior problems. The children of persons who are exposed to lead before or during pregnancy may be at increased risk of these harmful health effects. Adults have increased risks of heart disease, high blood pressure, kidney or nervous system problems. Contact your health care provider for more information about your risks.
The Louisiana Department of Health and Hospitals - Office of Public Health routinely monitors for constituents in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. The tables that follow show the results of our monitoring during the period of January 1st to December 31st, 2024. Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk.
In the tables below, you will find many terms and abbreviations you might not be familiar with. To help you better understand these terms, we've provided the following definitions:
Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/L) - one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.
Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter (ug/L) - one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.
Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - picocuries per liter is a measure of the radioactivity in water.
Treatment Technique (TT) - an enforceable procedure or level of technological performance which public water systems must follow to ensure control of a contaminant.
Action level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant that, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system must follow.
Maximum contaminant level (MCL)- the "Maximum Allowed" MCL is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCL's are set as close to the MCLG's as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
Maximum contaminant level goal (MCLG) - the "Goal" is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to human health. MCLG's allow for a margin of safety.
Maximum residual disinfectant level (MRDL) - The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
Maximum residual disinfectant level goal (MRDLG) - The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
Level 1 assessment - A study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine (if possible) why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system.
Level 2 Assessment - A very detailed study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine (if possible) why an E. coli MCL violation has occurred and/or why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system on multiple occasions.
During the period covered by this report we had the below noted violations.

+++++Environmental Protection Agency Required Health Effects Language+++++ Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).
Lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. STATE OF LA MILITARY DEPT - CAMP MINDEN is responsible for providing high quality drinking water and removing lead pipes, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components in your home. You share the responsibility for protecting yourself and your family from the lead in your home plumbing. GARDENING

A POSSIBLE JULY AGENDA FOR GARDENERS

JOE W. WHITE, PH.D.
Extension Horticulturist, (ret)
LSU AgCenter
July 2025

Since July is usually one of the hottest months of the year and with the kind of weather we've experienced this year, it would be a guess as to what July will deliver. So, with the probable high temperatures, what do you plan to do in your garden in July? Unless you are a very dedicated gardener, you could be tempted to take a vacation to a place with a cooler climate or at least make some visits to a local pool. However, I'm aware that there are some gardeners who may decide to defy the heat and continue their gardening activities regardless of the high temperatures. While you may already have a "to do" list, I'm suggesting a few more items you might want to add to your current list. Most spring planted vegetables are about finished by now so just clean out the garden, re-fertilize lightly and re-plant with vegetables that possess some heat tolerance. Such crops to consider would be southern peas, squash, hot peppers and perhaps (if you can find any) some heat-resistant tomatoes. The same would be the case for flower beds. Suggestions for shady beds include coleus and caladiums. For beds with limited shade some good choices would be wax begonias, torenias and impatiens. Complete any pruning of ornamentals that's needed and it's best done before the middle of the month. With few exceptions, no more pruning should be done from mid-July to mid-October. Blackberries have finished producing by now, but the plants will continue to grow. You should continue to top the new canes at a height of 4 or 5 feet to encourage branching which will result in an increased fruit-bearing surface. It has probably been several weeks since you last fertilized your lawn. If that's the case, the early part of July is a good time to fertilize, but make it a light application. The best fertilizers for this purpose are those that contain high nitrogen, low phosphorus and low to medium potassium. Apply dry granular fertilizers to a dry turf and then water heavily. Never put dry fertilizers on wet grass. Use supplemental irrigation if rain is absent for extended periods. Low soil moisture will not encourage plants to develop big root systems so keep an eye on plants that appear to need water. Also check potted plants for water needs often since their low volume of soil or potting mix tends to dry out quickly. If you have crape myrtles, keep the older, dried blossom clusters clipped off at their base to encourage new blossoms to form. Check landscape plants for the presence of invading poison ivy. Use the double glove technique with an appropriate herbicide to deal effectively with this problem.

Prepare pets for Fourth of July festivities

Many people are eager for Independence Day celebrations in early summer. There is much to be excited about, as festivities often begin in the afternoon with barbecues and pool parties, and commence late at night after fireworks shows that light up the night sky. Still, not everyone enjoys the extra noise and busy nature of July 4th parties, particularly furry members of the family. Animal control services often report an increase in lost animals between July 4th and July 6th. That's because the excitement of the holiday puts pets out of their comfort zones. While pet owners need not cancel their July 4th plans, they should take heed of the many ways to keep their pets safe during the festivities.

Update identification
Be sure prior to any July 4th events that pets are wearing collars with current identification information. If an address or phone number has changed since the last time you updated microchip records, be sure to check the account is current.

Be careful with alcoholic drinks
Party hosts typically serve beer, wine and cocktails. Alcoholic beverages have the potential to poison pets, says the ASPCA. Animals can become very intoxicated, severely depressed or go into comas if they drink alcohol. Keep spirited drinks well out of reach.

Check with the vet
Many pets are prone to anxiety from loud noises, such as thunderstorms and fireworks, and lots of commotion — something that occurs in spades come July 4th. Some veterinarians recommend a small course of anti-anxiety medication or a sedative to help pets cope with the stimuli.

Create a quiet space
Allow pets to ride out the day in their comfortable, quiet and cozy retreats. If necessary, create a space in an interior room. Cover the pet crate with a blanket and offer favorite toys or bedding to create a soothing environment.

Place notes on doors and gates
While it's best to keep pets in a locked room away from the fray, some pets like to socialize with guests and are not bothered by noises. However, alert guests with notes posted on doors and fence gates to check to make sure pets are not trying to escape behind them. All doors should be closed firmly when entering or exiting.

Pick up debris
Firework debris can rain down on properties even if you were not shooting off the fireworks. Curious pets may pick it up or eat it, which runs the risk of an upset stomach or even an intestinal blockage. Check your yard before letting pets out to play.

Keep an eye on the grill
Pets can be opportunists, and those burgers and chicken drumsticks smell delicious to pets. Pets that get too close to the grill can become injured. And if pets eat leftovers, they may end up with digestive distress or even be poisoned by foods that are toxic to cats and dogs. Pets need to be protected during summertime parties like Independence Day celebrations. While pet owners need not cancel their July 4th plans, they should take heed of the many ways to keep their pets safe during the festivities.

4th of July Party Tips

More than 332 million people live in the United States, according to the most recent data from the U.S. Census Bureau. There's a good chance that, come July 4th, a considerable number of those individuals will be hosting or attending parties to celebrate American independence.

This year those planning on a July 4th fête can consider these tips as they prepare to celebrate with family and friends.

- Borrow a second grill. Those tasked with grilling often find themselves standing there for hours over hot flames. Cut down on time at the grill by adding an extra cooking surface. That's easily achieved by having more than one grill going simultaneously. Cook fast-cooking items like hamburgers and hot dog on one grill, and reserve the other for sausages and chicken, which may need more time to reach safe levels of doneness.
- Stop peeking. Resist any urge to check the food too often. Every time you flip, press or move the meats, you compromise flavor and could make the food dry out.
- Lure insects away. Bees are attracted to sweet smells, but wasps and hornets are drawn to meats. Put a saucer of very sweet soda and some chicken scraps in a far corner of your yard to attract yellow jackets and other stinging insects to that area, drawing their attention away from guests and their meals.
- Hire a lifeguard. If your party will involve time spent in a pool, consider hiring a lifeguard or designate someone to observe pool activities. Party hosts may be distracted by other duties, and one can't count on guests to watch what is going on in the pool. For safety's sake, a dedicated set of eyes on swimmers can prevent injuries and accidents.
- Give neighbors a heads-up. Parties and barbecues on July 4th are largely expected, but you can offer a courtesy to neighbors by informing them of your plans, including the start time and proposed ending time. If you are close with neighbors, consider inviting them to participate.
- Create a patriotic playlist. Use your favorite music streaming service to curate a music list that features America-specific songs, songs about summer and general party tunes. Be sure the music is in the background and does not overpower the conversation.

July 4th plans are heating up. When hosting a party or barbecue, keep it simple and safe.
